No U.S. Men Involved In Fighting In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Sharp fighting broke out Saturday night between Lebanese security forces and opposition rebels near the presidential palace and government buildings in the heart of Beirut.

U.S. troops who landed in Lebanon last week were not involved.

The security forces and the rebels exchanged mortar and machine gun fire across Capitol Square where the post office is located.

Harry M. Warner, Motion Picture Executive, Dies

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Harry M. Warner, 76, one of four immigrant brothers who parlayed a small movie house into a multi-million dollar film empire, is dead.

The pioneer motion picture executive died at his Bel Air home Friday night of a coronary occlusion. He had been president of Warner Bros. Studios for 30 years before he stepped down in 1956.

His death was the fourth within less than a year among early-day film tycoons who had made Hollywood a household word around the world. The others were Louis B. Mayer, Jesse L. Lasky, and Harry Cohn.

Harry Warner was the eldest of 12 children born in Poland. His mother brought him to the United States in 1887 to join his father, who had immigrated to Baltimore, Md.

In 1895, the family moved to Youngstown, Ohio, where Harry opened a bicycle shop a few years later.

In 1903 he and his brothers, Sam, Jack L. and Albert, opened their first theater in a remodeled store at New Castle, Pa. It prospered from the start. Harry watched the money Jack earned singing in the orchestra pit. Albert ran the projector, and Sam sold tickets.

First Pilot To Fly Into Space Killed In Crash Of Jet Plane

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Capt. Iven Kincheloe, chosen by the Air Force to be one of the first pilots to fly into space, was killed Saturday when his jet fighter crashed while on a routine flight.

His F104 Starfighter slammed into the ground and exploded shortly after taking off from this air base in the Mojave Desert.

Kincheloe, who held the American altitude record of 126,000 feet, ejected himself from the plane.

The Air Force said the rugged, hands-on pilot apparently was trying to turn back to the field after a low altitude flame-out.

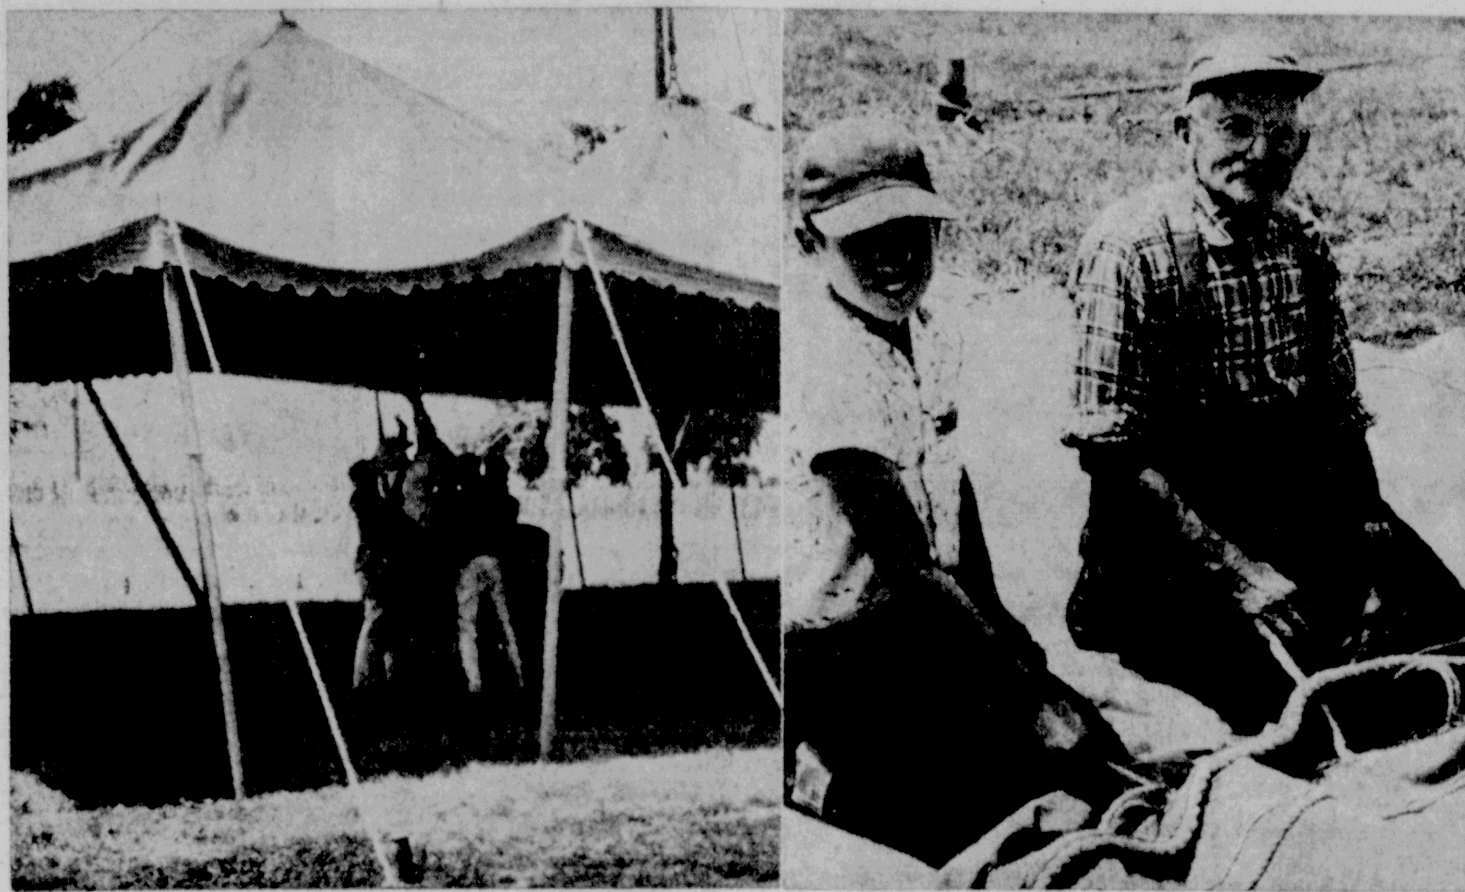

"It looked like he was gliding in for a landing on the desert," said Steve Michel, a nearby rancher.

Just before the plane hit and exploded, Kincheloe catapulted from the cockpit. His body was badly burned from the explosion's fireball. Wreckage was spread over a half mile area.

Kincheloe, 30, had taken off to fly a "chase" plane for another jet being tested. The Air Force said it was considered a routine hop for the Korean War hero, who flew many such flights as one of the United States' top test pilots.

Kincheloe, an aeronautical and

Copter Carrying Five Crashes: See No Sign Of Life

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—An Air Force helicopter carrying five men crashed Thursday on the Greenland ice cap. A twin-engine amphibian that flew over the scene reported no sign of life.

Despite this report Saturday night, an Eighth Air Force information officer at Westover said the Air Force would carry the men as missing "until we get a ground party there."

The copter, out of Thule Air Force Base, crashed 173 miles east of Thule about 2 p.m. (EST) Thursday.

The information officer said he talked by radio early Saturday evening with Col. Bryson Bailey, wing commander at Thule and at that time Bailey had not heard from a search party that left Thule aboard tracked vehicles—"weasels"—Friday morning.

The helicopter was reported missing Friday morning on a routine air recovery mission.

Those aboard the helicopter were identified as:

1st Lt. Harry J. Dewald, pilot, Sarasota, Fla.

2nd Lt. Eugene Sullivan, copilot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Sullivan, Oak Creek, Colo.

S. Sgt. John B. Mustain, flight mechanic, son of Mrs. Lena B. Mustain, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. C. John H. Dewey, flight mechanic, whose parents are William C. Dewey, Rt. 1, Auburn, Ind., and Mrs. Orleva Funk, Rt. 1, Avilla, Ind.

Dulles Arrives In London For Baghdad Pact Meet

LONDON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles flew into London Saturday night to join officials of four nations in a critical round of talks on the Middle East.

He came here from Bonn, where he discussed the Middle East situation with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The secretary looked grave as he stepped from President Eisenhower's personal plane at London airport. He smiled briefly as he shook hands with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and other officials.

Dulles refused to answer reporters' questions but he read a prepared statement saying:

"I am happy to be here to attend the meeting of the Baghdad Pact Council. The problems of the Middle East have grown in importance and it's very important to have this group of countries get together."

"I hope that out of our talks we will get benefit, council, understanding and agreement as to how to deal with these great problems."

Dulles' decision to sit in on the Baghdad Pact Council meetings Monday and Tuesday was made after the July 14 revolt in Iraq.

Taking part in the talks along with Dulles and Lloyd will be Turkey's Premier Adnan Menderes, Iranian Prime Minister Mehdi Eghbal and Pakistani Premier Feroz Khan Noon.

High diplomats assembled for the Pact Council session reported they understand the United States soon will announce readiness to join the alliance. The United States already is a member of the pact's top committee.

The American move, if the understanding of the informants is correct, would aim at two main objectives:

1. To offset the shock to the Baghdad allies resulting from the revolt in Iraq and thus assure the members that the United States remains vitally interested in their security.

2. To put Russia on notice, in advance of the proposed summit conference, that America remains determined to stand by her friends in the Middle East.

Essentially the diplomatic talks are centered on four crucial issues: the Middle East, the future of the Baghdad Pact, the proposed East-West summit meeting and Cyprus.

Earlier in Bonn, Chancellor Adenauer gave full endorsement to President Eisenhower's insistence on following orderly U.N. procedure toward a possible summit conference on the Middle East.

At lunchtime, Ross and Lewis unzipped the necks of their pressure suits. They appeared comfortable in the 81-degree temperature inside their pressurized gondola. It was 65 degrees below zero outside.

They turned the camera on themselves as they hunched, while ground crews some 15 miles below watched on a television screen. At times the reception was good. Other times the screen was filled with "snow."

The TV signals were being broadcast on high frequency which most regular home television sets were unable to pick up.

By 7:30 p.m., the pair radioed they had dropped ballast and were down to 12,000 feet in preparation for a stabilized night altitude. They said the temperature was up to 90 degrees, but that the sealed atmospheric system "was working pretty well," with a reading equivalent to only 940 feet above sea level.

Their report came as they passed over Ferguson Falls, Minn., on a course indicating they likely would come down north of Aberdeen, E. D., about noon Sunday.

The 17-story high balloon was launched from the bottom of a 400-foot-deep open pit iron mine at Crosby, Minn., 15 miles north of Brainerd, before dawn Saturday morning for a 30-hour flight.

Ross and Lewis are carrying out a maze of technical experiments aimed at paving the way to space travel.

Both were in jovial mood as they talked with ground crews. "We are just as comfortable as we can be," Lewis radioed back. "We couldn't be happier."

They described the flight in a near-cloudburst sky as "smooth, enjoyable and wonderful."

Newspapers are keeping modern. In 1957, over $87,000,000 was invested by newspapers to improve plants, equipment and product.

38.43 Pound Explorer Swings In Unusual Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's biggest and most important satellite was hurled into orbit Saturday. Its job was to tell if deadly radiation in outer space will long delay man's greatest adventure—flight to the moon.

The Army's dependable workhorse, the Jupiter-C rocket, blasted the Explorer IV, into an unusual elliptical orbit that will swing it over the heavily populated northern latitudes of the world, including Russia.

The U.S. Naval Research Laboratory, on the basis of preliminary information, estimated Explorer IV's distance from the earth at the low point of its orbit at 174.7 miles and 1,365 miles at the highest.

Scientists had said earlier an altitude range of 120 to 1,200 miles would mean a four or five-year life for the satellite.

They estimated that its speed ranges at 14,000 m.p.h. to 18,000, depending on altitude, and one trip around the earth takes approximately 112 minutes.

The scientists expected to have more accurate estimates of these figures by Sunday.

The first radio reports from Explorer IV gave information on cosmic rays. Scientists expected later data from tracking stations in South America, located under the high point of the satellite's early orbits, to provide the first word on the mysterious radiation under study.

Existence of the radiation which could be fatal to human space travelers was discovered by the first two Explorer satellites. They lacked instruments, however, to give a complete picture.

Explorer IV was equipped for just one purpose—to determine whether this radiation is just another big problem that can be licked in a short time, or whether it could kill for many years man's dream of journeying to the stars.

Dr. Werner von Braun, the German scientist who masterminded the building of the Jupiter-C, and 13 touring congressmen saw the 70-foot-long rocket blast off its launching pad at 10 a.m. EST.

Two and one half hours later the 38.43-pound satellite had completed one global round trip.

It joined three other satellites now whirling around the earth—the 3,600-pound Soviet Sputnik, the 30.8-pound Explorer I and the Navy's 3½-pound Vanguard.

Dr. James Van Allen of the State University of Iowa, who developed the radiation-measuring equipment in the Explorer satellite, said the mission was a success.

Ike Pushes Proposal For Summit Meeting Within U.N. Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower pressed forward Saturday his campaign to hold prospective summit talks on the Middle East crisis strictly within United Nations Security Council rules and procedures.

In a letter to President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil, Eisenhower said the U.N. is the only appropriate forum in which to discuss Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's charge of a present threat to peace in the Middle East.

Eisenhower stressed the same point in a joint statement with Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana. He coupled with it a pledge that as soon as the U.N. takes effective action to deal with the situation the United States will withdraw its troops from Lebanon.

These assertions followed Eisenhower's proposal to Khrushchev Friday that any U.N. summit meeting be held as a meeting of the Security Council and that arrangements, including agreement on a date, should be worked out through the permanent U.N. representatives in New York.

With summit talks increasingly likely to start within the next two or three weeks, the interim may well bring new outbreaks of violence and heightened tension in the Middle East itself.

Furthermore, the proposed U.N. summit conference gives promise of generating more conflict than peace and of creating more bitterness than it overcomes in the relations between Soviet and Western leaders.

These are the gloomy judgments of top U.S. officials. They fear a summit meeting in the present circumstances may turn out to be a grave mistake but regard it as unavoidable, mainly because Khrushchev has succeeded in

Recess Hearings Into Admiral's Disappearance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Navy's closed hearings into the disappearance at sea of Rear Adm. Lynne C. Quigley last Wednesday was in weekend recess Saturday. A brother said the family was not convinced he committed suicide.

Quigley's relatives said the Navy had told them to refer all inquiries to naval authorities, and the local naval headquarters said findings will be announced eventually in Washington.

The admiral's widow, Ana Griffin Quigley, reportedly was due in Washington Saturday by air.

The Quigleys were returning from a post in Japan to a new assignment in San Diego when the admiral disappeared from the liner President Cleveland.

When the ship docked here Thursday, Commodore H. D. Ehm of the American President Lines said that Quigley had kissed his wife before leaving their cabin and then told her she'd be better off as a widow.

U.N. Sources Believe Talks Will Be Held In New York

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U.N. Security Council delegation sources expressed belief Saturday night the council will hold a summit meeting in New York on the Middle East crisis despite French Premier De Gaulle's preference for a big power conference in Europe.

Some said the meeting may start in a week or two. Two such sources, talking with a reporter, pointed out that in stating his preference Saturday to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, De Gaulle did not rule out a high-level meeting of the 11-nation Council.

One delegate of a country on the Council noted that the government heads of Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States have come out for a Council meeting.

"That makes three against one so far," said this source.

"I suppose De Gaulle will finally give in if the others stand by their personal points of view."

Another delegate serving on the Council said De Gaulle's letter:

De Gaulle Wants Summit Talks Held In Geneva

PARIS (AP)—Premier De Gaulle proposed Saturday night that the summit conference be held in Geneva or in any country in Europe.

De Gaulle reiterated he was committed in principle to attend a summit conference but wished it to be prepared in calm and with reason.

De Gaulle said, replying to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's acceptance of a summit conference at the United Nations, that Russia "knows that the destiny of the Middle East affects in a direct manner that of all Europe."

De Gaulle said the U.N. Security Council apparently has been unable to achieve a positive settlement of the Lebanese question and he was therefore prepared to proceed without delay in preparation of a summit conference.

He said the summit conference plan in the Security Council framework accepted by Khrushchev would entail the attendance of all the council members, India, and the interested Arab states.

"I must note, that in this case, it would be, in my opinion, indispensable to involve there equally the other states of the Middle East, at least Turkey, Iran, and Israel who are also directly interested," De Gaulle said.

He added that the special nature of such a Security Council meeting would have little connection with the summit conference initially proposed by Khrushchev and "to which I have accepted in principle to attend."

De Gaulle said for his part he felt it preferable that the chiefs of government "of the principal powers interested" should meet first somewhere in Europe. A report of this meeting could then be forwarded to the Security Council or the General Assembly of the U.N., he said.

New Miss Universe Looking For A Man Not A Career

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The new Miss Universe—a dark-eyed South American beauty from Colombia—said Saturday that she is looking for a man, not a career.

"I would like to get married and have a lot of children," said raven-haired Luz Marina Zuleaga, selected fairest of the fair Friday night in the annual extravaganza.

Here's a bright note for all the unmarried amies: Miss Colombia has never been kissed—for real.

"Only that actor kissed her," said her mother, Margarita, referring to a friendly buss by TV cowboy Hugh O'Brian during a movie studio tour earlier in the week.

The new Miss Universe stands 5 feet 4 and weighs 116 pounds.

Cuban Rebels Call For Strikes To Upset Batista

HAVANA (P) — Cuban rebels again are calling for a general strike to topple President Fulgencio Batista. There is no indication the workers will heed the call.

Rebel attempts to drum up three general strikes in the past 12 months have flopped.

There seems to be no visible sentiment in favor of a strike.

Rebel bulletins called upon all Cubans, pending a new general strike call, to apply an economic squeeze this way:

1. Stay away from all public spectacles.
2. Buy only basic essentials.
3. Use automobiles as little as possible.
4. Do not buy national lottery ticket.
5. Cooperate economically with the revolution.

Name Three Judges To Select District 9 Outstanding Nurse

Mrs. Grace Hood, President of 9th District, Illinois Nurses' Association, announced Saturday that Mrs. Eleanor Miller, Ph. D., 1252 West College; Robert R. Hartman, M. D., 1040 West College, and Claudia Naranick, R. N., 207 East Superior, will serve as judges in choosing the District's outstanding nurse for 1958.

The judges, in accepting the appointment said, "We are indeed pleased to serve on a panel to give recognition to a 9th District Nurse for superior performance in the Nursing Profession. Such a plan for recognition of a high level of professional competence has many advantages for the nurse, her employer, and the public, and is in keeping with the plan of the American Nurses' Association to establish a system of recognition for superior performance by individual members of the nursing profession."

The panel of judges will select 9th District's outstanding nurse from Morgan, Christian, Sangamon, Cass, Greene, Montgomery, Macon, Macon, Menard, Scott, Mason, Calhoun and Jersey counties on Aug. 5, 1958. Their choice will then be eligible to become the Illinois Nurse of the Year, chosen from winners of the 14 INA Districts.

The honorary award of "Nurse of the Year" will be awarded at the Illinois Nurses' Association's state convention, October 15-17.

Mrs. Richard Allen Lippert

Marcia Kay Wessler, Richard Lippert Wed At Arenzville Trinity Lutheran

ARENZVILLE—The Trinity Lutheran church was the scene last Sunday evening at six o'clock for the wedding of Miss Marcia Kay Wessler of Arenzville and Richard Allen Lippert of Chapin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wessler and the groom's parents are Mrs. Marcella Lippert of Chapin and the late Harry Lippert.

The Reverend H. A. Alward officiated for the double ring ceremony attended by many relatives and friends.

Before the ceremony Jerry Lovekamp sang, "O Perfect Love," "Wedding Prayer," and "Today O Lord," accompanied at the organ by Robert Wessler.

The bride's sister, Pamela, was her maid of honor and Miss Charlene Lippert of Peoria, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid.

Gordon Lippert of Chapin attended his brother as best man and another brother, Beryl, also of Chapin, was groomsmen. Ushers were Max Lippert, Beards, brother of the groom and Don Wessler, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a floor length gown of blue embroidered nylon tulle over crisp white tulle. The figure molding bodice featured a round neckline bordered with dainty blossoms. The small sleeves were shirred and covered buttons fastened the dress at the back. The fabulously full skirt was designed with twin panels of scalloped embroidered tulle parted in front and back to reveal tier upon tier of cascading ruffles swept out over hoops.

Her fingertip veil of pure silk illusion fell from a scalloped tiara outlined in seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book covered with lace and topped with a white orchid from which cascaded streamers of ribbon tied with daisies.

The attendants wore identical gowns of blue embroidered nylon on tulle, made with empire waistlines. The full skirts were ballerina length with draped chiffon streamers extending from shoulder to hemline. They wore small feather hats with matching veils and white mitts. Each carried a cascade arrangement of daisies.

CHICAGO (AP) — The butcher hog market this week recovered most of its setbacks of last week as receipts dropped off about 20 per cent to the smallest total for a five day week since September 1953.

Barrows and gilts lined 50 to 75 cents a hundredweight and sows advanced 50 cents. Most of the advances were made on Monday and were maintained with little change the remainder of the week.

Offerings on the 12 major markets were the smallest since last August and shippers were active buyers throughout the week but local packers bought sparingly.

Meanwhile, wholesale pork prices advanced as much as $2.50 while other cuts declined as much as $2. The week's cattle receipts were 20 per cent under last week's total which was the largest in 14 months and slaughter steers advanced 25 cents to $1.

About 70 per cent of the offerings were slaughter steers and these included the largest percentage of choice and prime grades since February. Almost two-thirds of the steers sold graded choice. Wholesale beef prices in Chicago held steady throughout the period but they were unevenly steady to $1 higher in New York.

Spring slaughter lambs comprised about 90 per cent of the offerings on the sheep market with good and choice grades predominating. Offerings were 15 per cent below those of the previous week with average weight continuing to run light and the majority running less than 90 lbs.

Spring lambs were steady to 50 cents lower for the week but carcass lamb prices advanced $1 during the period.

NEW YORK (AP)—Both corporate and U.S. government bonds firmed this week in the wake of the Federal Reserve System's new policy of supporting the market by buying government bonds as well as short term bills in open market operations.

The week before, the government suffered its heaviest losses of the year.

Corporate bond trading declined in volume from recent weeks, although it was still above year-ago levels. The total was $24,846,659 per value on the New York Stock Exchange, compared with $27,549,000 the previous week and $15,578,200 for the corresponding week in 1957.

GRAIN PRICES
DECLINE AS NORMAL
TRADING RESUMES

By GIL MAYO

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market slid back into its normal trading groove this week after wiping out the sharp gains following the Middle East flare-up.

The decline continued all week except for a brief respite on Wednesday when wheat and soybeans had slight temporary support and racked up small gains.

At the close Friday, the losses had reached about the same downward range as last week's climb after the landing of U.S. Marines in Lebanon. The trade had decided early in the week that the international tension had ceased to be a bullish influence but the price descent was in slower stages than the ascent.

One reason for the slower reaction appeared to be that coincident with the flareup producers decided to hold, with that troops going into trouble spots—it was no time to sell.

In this situation, many dealers were caught in a time squeeze with trading in the July contract expiring on Tuesday. That meant they had to cover large commitments for delivery or be prepared to deliver the actual grain.

A good deal of short interest was built up during the early days of the Middle East crisis and there was little time left for canceling out the July contracts. The result was that the shorts were good buyers even on the scale down in order to beat the expiration deadline.

Commercial business was slow although there was a good volume of export sales during the week, particularly in wheat.

At the end of the week, wheat was 5 1/2-6 1/2 cents a bushel lower than a week ago, September $1.55 1/2-5/8; corn 2 1/2-3 1/4 lower, September $1.25 1/2-3/4; soybeans $4 1/2-1/4 lower, September $2.27-26 1/4; hard 15 to 30 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.25.

At the end of the week, wheat was 5 1/2-6 1/2 cents a bushel lower than a week ago, September $1.55 1/2-5/8; corn 2 1/2-3 1/4 lower, September $1.25 1/2-3/4; soybeans $4 1/2-1/4 lower, September $2.27-26 1/4; hard 15 to 30 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $12.25.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed ahead to successive new 1958 highs this week on the heaviest volume of the year.

The advance in prices almost matched that of the week ended Jan. 4 and ranked as the best for any full week of 1958.

A combination of good economic news and further reassurance about the Middle East crisis created buoyant confidence on Wall Street. Stocks barely paused to consolidate past gains before they pushed higher again.

It was the market's first straight weekly rise. Prices were at their best average level since Aug. 5, 1957.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $4.50 to its latest 1958 peak of $182.70.

Turnover swelled to 18,581,325 shares, the biggest total since the week ended Oct. 26 when a rapidly falling market climaxed its descent with volume of 20,804,199 shares.

Blue chip issues and the lower-priced stocks got a big play, reflecting both heavy buying by the big institutions, investors and high speculative interest among traders and the public.

As the week ended there was a string of nine straight sessions in which volume had never gone below three million shares. The switch in the Middle East situation, in which volume had never gone below three million shares.

Confidence was bolstered further by reported increases in steel buying for 1959 cars, a rise in the steel operating rate for the third straight week, a report by the President's Council of Economic Advisors that business reversed its decline in the second quarter, another rise in the cost of living index and the recall of workers by several large manufacturers.

U. N. SOURCES
THINK TALKS
BE IN NEW YORK

10 days to set up the meeting.

One diplomat said Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld thinks he will receive a copy of Khrushchev's reply to Eisenhower before Monday. The Soviet declaration has been giving Hammarskjöld copies of all Khrushchev's letters on the subject for circulation as official U.N. documents.

Some Western sources said they expect Khrushchev may delay his answer until Wednesday. They said they believe he "might wrangle a bit" but nevertheless give a go-ahead for necessary preparations at the U.N.

They expressed the opinion that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld would begin consulting Council delegates privately as the 11-nation council itself would meet publicly next Friday or the following Monday to decide the time, place, terms, and participants for the high-level meeting.

They speculated that this high-level meeting would start between Aug. 11 and Aug. 15 and last three or four days. One said: "It would be a most convenient place."

Khrushchev, Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Macmillan and Indian Prime Minister Nehru, if he is invited, all have agreed to attend such a meeting.

presidency. The opposition leaders said they may decide later whether to follow Saeb Salam's call for a boycott of the election unless U.S. troops withdraw and President Camille Chamoun quits first.

Elsewhere the situation remained quiet.

The only explosive note was a Soviet broadcast warning Turkey to keep hands off the rebel regime in Iraq. But Turkish officials shrugged off the warning as propaganda. They noted Turkey already had assured its big neighbor it would make no move to create tension.

The volatile Arab states seemed to be marking time while diplomats in the world's capitals negotiated for a summit conference on the Middle East at the United Nations next month.

The big question confronting Lebanon was finding a president that President Camille Chamoun's pro-Western government and the neutralist opposition can agree on. On such a compromise candidate ride the hopes of ending the 78-day-old rebellion. It was rebel opposition to Chamoun which triggered the revolt.

Parliament, which elects presidents in this half-Christian, half-Muslim country, will meet Thursday.

Saeb Salam, opposition leader, warned Friday his group would not permit the election to be held as long as Chamoun is still in office and foreign troops are in Lebanon.

Other leaders of the opposition National Front said, however, that Salam had issued the warning in his own name and that the Front has not approved it.

"In a few days we will make a decision," a top Front leader told The Associated Press. "Perhaps we will approve Salam's statement. Perhaps we will modify it."

The field of presidential candidates broadened. A wealthy member of Parliament, Elie Aboujaoudé, announced his candidacy.

Several others have told friends they are in the race. Among the latter are Raymond Edde, son of the late President, Emile Edde. Edde is a leader of the middle-of-the-road National Bloc party.

A strict neutral who announced his availability is lawyer Edmond Gaspard, a highly respected Lebanese who has no political connections.

"If they decide they want a strict neutral, I have a chance," Gaspard said, "and unless a neutral man is chosen this crisis will be settled by force."

Still running in the lead, however, are a prominent non-political personality whose name is censored (Gen. Fuad Chehab, the army commander) and two ex-presidents, Bechara el Khoury and Alfred Naccache.

President Eisenhower's envoy, Robert D. Murphy, continued his contacts with leaders on both sides. He met Kamal Jumblatt, socialist leader of one rebel army, in the mountains Friday. Saturday he met again with Chamoun.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY TO LAUNCH STOCK
AUCTION SALES

The first stocker and feeder cattle sale conducted by the Mississippi Valley Live Stock Board will be held at the yards, 61 Angelen street, St. Louis, on Friday, Aug. 1, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

R. C. Gaff, secretary, says "If this first sale is a success we intend to have them monthly or even bi-monthly. Thus far comments are exceeding our original expectations. There will be a fine selection of weights and quality to suit every taste."

A carload of breeding ewes and feeder lambs will also be offered Friday.

It's orbit covers an area 51 degrees north and 51 degrees south latitude, compared with about 34 degrees for the other Explorers.

Inside the satellite were two Geiger-Mueller counters and two scintillation instruments. These were to record the radiation and also to determine if it comes from the sun or from interstellar space.

Information gathered by the satellite is being radioed back by two transmitters, one operating on 108.63 megacycles, the other on the 108-megacycle band.

The Jupiter-C was powered for the first 200 miles by a modified Redstone medium-range ballistic missile. After the Redstone exhausted its fuel and fell away, the satellite was boosted on a solid-fuel Sergeant rockets in the three other stages. The solid fuel, the Army said, is new and is secret.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate-passed farm bill would offer every wheat farmer a new chance to appeal his acreage allotment.

It would provide no change, however, in overall acreage allotments or in price supports.

An amendment by Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.), adopted by voice vote, would allow any farmer who is dissatisfied with his farm acreage allotment for the 1959 crop of wheat may appeal for a bigger one.

It specifies that the appeal must be filed within 15 days after the bill becomes law, or within 15 days after his acreage allotment notice is mailed to him by his county committee, whichever date is later.

Although the bill does not elaborate, this presumably means within 15 days from the date on which the notice is postmarked.

The Senate passed the amended bill Friday night, sending it to the House.

The amendment would not increase the acreage allotment of any county as a whole. Hruska told the Senate, but would allow and review committees to reconsider and amend the acreage allocations of individual farmers who appeal.

PITTSFIELD CHAMP
WINS HORSESHOE
CONTEST, 50-19

R. Lee Atwood, champ tosser of Pittsfield, journeyed to Jacksonville Saturday evening to show Fred Hart, champ of Morgan county, how to come from behind and win at horseshoes.

The first game Atwood won 50 to 19. In the second game Hart took a commanding lead, 33 to 3, but Atwood threw 14 straight ringers to nearly tie the score. This game ended with a 50 to 49 score in favor of Atwood.

The chain-smoking, 23-year-old Miss McIntire kept her Curtis Cup teammates under the gun throughout the 35 holes needed to close out the match.

Each was six over par for the Oak Park Country Club course with 79 on the morning round with Miss McIntire taking a 2-up lead.

In the afternoon, Miss McIntire compensated for a poor first three holes by shooting 2-under par for the next 14. In all, she was eight over for the 35 holes while Miss Quast was seven over. For the entire tournament, Miss Quast had a remarkable 41 one-putt greens in 113 holes.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The government chose Saturday's fifth anniversary of the rebel movement to announce the killing of more than 48 insurgents and the arrest of 16 saboteurs.

Among those arrested was Dr. Joaquin Agramonte Molina, identified as chief of the rebel movement in Camaguey Province. He is the nephew of Roberto Agramonte, leader of the Orthodox party which opposes the regime of President Fulgencio Batista.

Agramonte had been in exile in Miami but now is believed to be in Caracas, Venezuela.

Agramonte Molina and 15 others were taken in widespread police raids in Havana. The slain rebels were killed in clashes in eastern Oriente Province where rebel leader Fidel Castro has directed operations from his mountain hideout.

Official announcements did not disclose when the clashes in Oriente and the Havana roundup occurred. Presumably they took place during the past week as government forces stepped up their campaign in anticipation of rebel movement.

Castro's group is known as the "26 of July Movement" because on that date in 1953 he opened warfare against Batista.

Other leaders of the opposition National Front said, however, that Salam had issued the warning in his own name and that the Front has not approved it.

"In a few days we will make a decision," a top Front leader told The Associated Press. "Perhaps we will approve Salam's statement. Perhaps we will modify it."

Flowers Stolen From Cemeteries In Three Towns

JERSEYVILLE—An unusual type of larceny has been reported recently to officers in this section of Illinois. The larceny consists of the theft of flowers from graves in various cemeteries, chiefly those growing in flower pots or urns on the graves.

Cemeteries reporting such thefts are those in the Greenfield, Medora and Fieldon vicinities. The thieves removed the flower pots with their contents, and investigators are wondering if the larceny is committed for the container or the geraniums or other flowers growing in the containers.

It has been indicated that the flowers may be taken into a market in the city and resold to dealers as originally produced products.

Bold Ruler Badly Beaten: Cohoes First

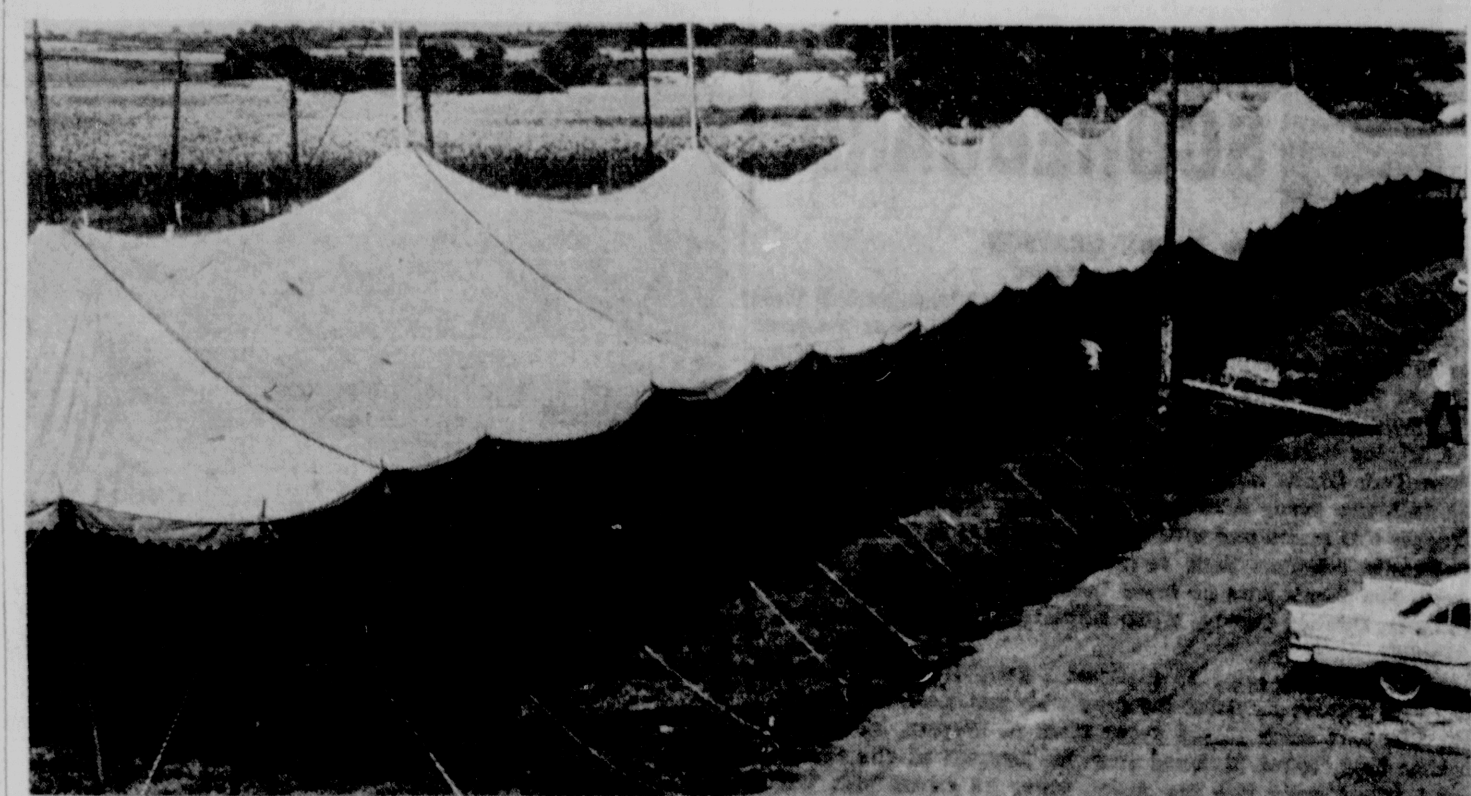

NEW YORK (AP) — Bold Ruler found 136 pounds and six of seven lightly-weighted opponents too much to handle Saturday and ended up badly beaten as Greentree Stable's Cohoes won the $57,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Jamaica.

The Ruler, giving from 22 to 31 pounds to his rivals in the mile and three-sixteenths test, defeated only one horse in going down to his worst defeat in a 32-race career. The 1957 Horse of the Year previously had finished out of the money only three times. Saturday, however, he was beaten by 15 lengths.

The victory was worth $36,450 to the Greentree Stable. Cohoes paid $25.70, $10.80 and $8.70. Third Brother returned $10.30 and $7.20 and Inside Tract $11.30 to show.

Practically every sale of every product manufactured in the U.S. will be purchased by one of the 100 million people who read a newspaper on an average day.

Jaycee Sponsored Fluff 'N Puff Pillow Service

"Like getting a new pillow for two dollars" is the comment made by those taking advantage of the Fluff 'N Puff pillow-making service which will be sponsored by the Jacksonville Jaycees next week, Monday, July 28 through Friday, August 1st. The local organization conducts a number of projects annually to finance its many civic improvement programs.

The service unit will be located on the square in front of Waddells store. The two dollar service includes the submitting of the feathers to exclusive ultraviolet light and ozone process that brings about sterilization and deodorizing removing 94 per cent of all bacteria present. This process is done without any liquids that would ruin feathers. The feathers from the pillow, new feathers being added when needed and at no extra cost, are then encased in new ticking. The ticking in floral pattern is available in several different color combinations. The completed pillow is sealed into a plastic bag ready for return to the owner.

The Jaycees will further accommodate Jacksonville people who find it impossible to get to the business district while this service is offered. There will be a pick-up and delivery service available by calling CH 5-8210, which is the Carl cleaners number.

Those bringing their pillows to the truck unit, may have same after about ten minutes. People using the delivery service will have one day service.

The co-chairmen for the Fluff 'N Puff project are Hobie Hinderliter and Bill Chipman.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA—(NEA)—When Bill Rigney talks baseball these days—and that is all he does—the manager of the San Francisco Giants becomes excited and keeps taking off his glasses and putting them on the woodwork in front of him, then picking them up and putting them on again.

Rigney is living on the same cloud he rode as coach of the New York Giants when they came from nowhere to take it all in 1951. The young Giants are the absolute shock of the major leagues this season and with Rigney everything is great. A club ordinarily considers itself fortunate when one recruit makes good. The Giants have no fewer than six—Jim Davenport, Leon Wagner, Orlando Cepeda, Willie Kirkland, Felipe Alou and Bob Schmidt.

"Every time we bring up a player, I get a younger and better one," says Rigney, discussing the newest big gun, Leon Wagner, who until this year never played above Class B. Wagner, built like a blocking back, belted 51 home runs for Danville of the Carolina League before going into the Army, where he served with Willie Kirkland, who flanks Willie Mays on the other side in the outfield.

"YOU KNOW HOW WELL Mays can play," points out Tom Sheehan, chief of the Giants' scouts. "Well the fact that Wagner and Kirkland can carry Mays gives you an idea of how tough this club is to get out. There are seven guys in the batting order who can knock the ball out of the park and they are backed up by hitters like Ray Jablonski, Hank Sauer, Whitey Lockman and Bob Speake."

"We're long on youth and inexperience, but this is a stronger club than those which won in 1951 and '54," comments Wes Westrum, the former catcher coaching the pitchers.

San Francisco's stand-up-and-cheer leads have given veterans who have been traded around new leagues on life. To Rigney, Danny O'Connell, batting .247, is now "out of a book" as a second baseman making the double play with the matchless Daryl Spencer. "All I know is that we kept right on winning when I put O'Connell in there," says Rig. Jablonski, who heretofore regarded fielding a ground ball as a misdemeanor, now is "tremendous."

THE GIANTS HAVE A DEAL on for a veteran American League pitcher.

"One more steady pitching hand and we'd go all the way sure pop," enthuses Rigney. "I've had to get innings rather than games, out of my pitchers, and am fortunate to have nine good arms in Johnny Antonelli, Mike McCormick, Al Worthington, Ramon Montant, Ruben Gomez, Paul Giel, Stu Miller, Merv Grissom and Don Johnson."

"Gomez could be the key. We'd win hands down if Ruben could shake his slump. Giel has won a couple of big games. Everybody is so eager to pitch that I have to fight to keep them out of the bullpen. Antonelli has gone in five times to protect leads."

WITH CEPEDA, A REAL big leaguer at first, and Davenport tightening the defense at third and Mays steering Wagner and Kirkland in the outfield, the young Giants attack savagely and run the bases like race horses.

"We have been beaten badly only twice all season, have lost 16 games by one run," sums up Rigney. "You get a few nine innings games, five in the ninth and one in the 12th."

Nobody has told the young Giants they can't win and they wouldn't pay any attention to anyone who did.

Friday Baseball

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just a couple of weeks ago, it appeared this was going to be the year Whitey Ford finally won 20. Now it looks as if the stubby southpaw ace of the New York Yankees might bundle up the American League shutout and earned-run titles too.

He lowered his ERA to 1.68 with a third consecutive shutout Friday night, blanking Cleveland on four hits for a 6-0 victory that gave him a 13-4 record and pushed the Yankees into a 14½-game lead, their largest yet.

Ford, who beat the Chicago White Sox 5-0 on three hits and Kansas City 8-0 with a five-hitter while running his string of scoreless innings to 27, now leads the majors with six shutouts. That's his one-year high.

It's also the biggest stockpile of shutouts in the AL since Detroit's Billy Hofer led the league with seven in 1955.

While the Yankees won their sixth in a row, the White Sox knocked off second-place Boston 4-0 on Dick Donovan's eight-hitter. Baltimore whipped Kansas City 6-3. Washington clipped Detroit 4-3.

In the National League, Milwaukee split a two-night pair with the Chicago Cubs, winning 4-1 after a 5-4 defeat. Second-place San Francisco was beaten 10-0 by Pittsburgh. St. Louis and Cincinnati also split a two-nighter, the Reds winning 5-4, then losing 3-2. Los Angeles ripped Philadelphia 3-3.

Three double plays kept Donovan out of serious trouble. The White Sox skidded Boston to a third consecutive road defeat with a walk, Jim Landis' double and an infield out in the first inning, then added three runs in the second. Frank Sullivan (8-4) lost it. Right-hander Arnie Portocarrero won his 10th with a sixth consecutive victory for the Orioles. He's lost five. He was tagged for homers by Bill Tuttle and Bob Cerv, but the Orioles put it away with seven runs in the third. Omar Woodluz and Gus Triandos bussed for five runs in the big frame and Bob Nieman added a run's shot in the seventh. Bob Gray (6-3) lost it.

The Tigers lost their fifth straight, blowing a 3-1 lead. A walk and singles by pinchhitter Ed Fournier, Marlie Pless and Don McMahon scored two in the third off losing reliever Hank Bauer (8-5). Ted Winters (1-1) was out of the game. The Yankees' double play Pless and McMahon were a bunch of Belts. Pless, beating the ballbatters out of the lead in a drive for the National League's first division.

He made it Friday night, going 16 hits, 10 for extra bases, while rookie right-hander

Curt Raydon pitched a four-hitter in a 10-0 breeze past San Francisco. That gave the Pirates a four-game winning streak and a share of fourth with St. Louis, 6½ games behind first-place Milwaukee. The Bucs have smacked 47 hits in their run, more than half of them for extra bases.

Milwaukee moved a full game ahead of the Cubs again, although held to a split in a two-night pair with the Cubs. The Braves won 4-1 after a 5-4 defeat.

The Cubs ended their losing string at five games with three homers in the opener. Dale Long, Ernie Banks and ex-Brave Sammy Taylor did the bombing, with Taylor's cracking a 4-4 tie in the eighth against losing reliever Humberto Robinson (1-3). Bill Henry (2-1) won it in relief.

Juan Pizarro, a lefty just recalled from Wichita, won his first division job in the nightcap. Joe Adcock was 3-for-3.

Both games were decided in the ninth at St. Louis. Don Newcombs lost his 10th by walking the tie-breaking run home with two out in the first game ninth. Bill Wright, late of the American League, gained his first NL complete game with a seven-hitter for a 2-1 record.

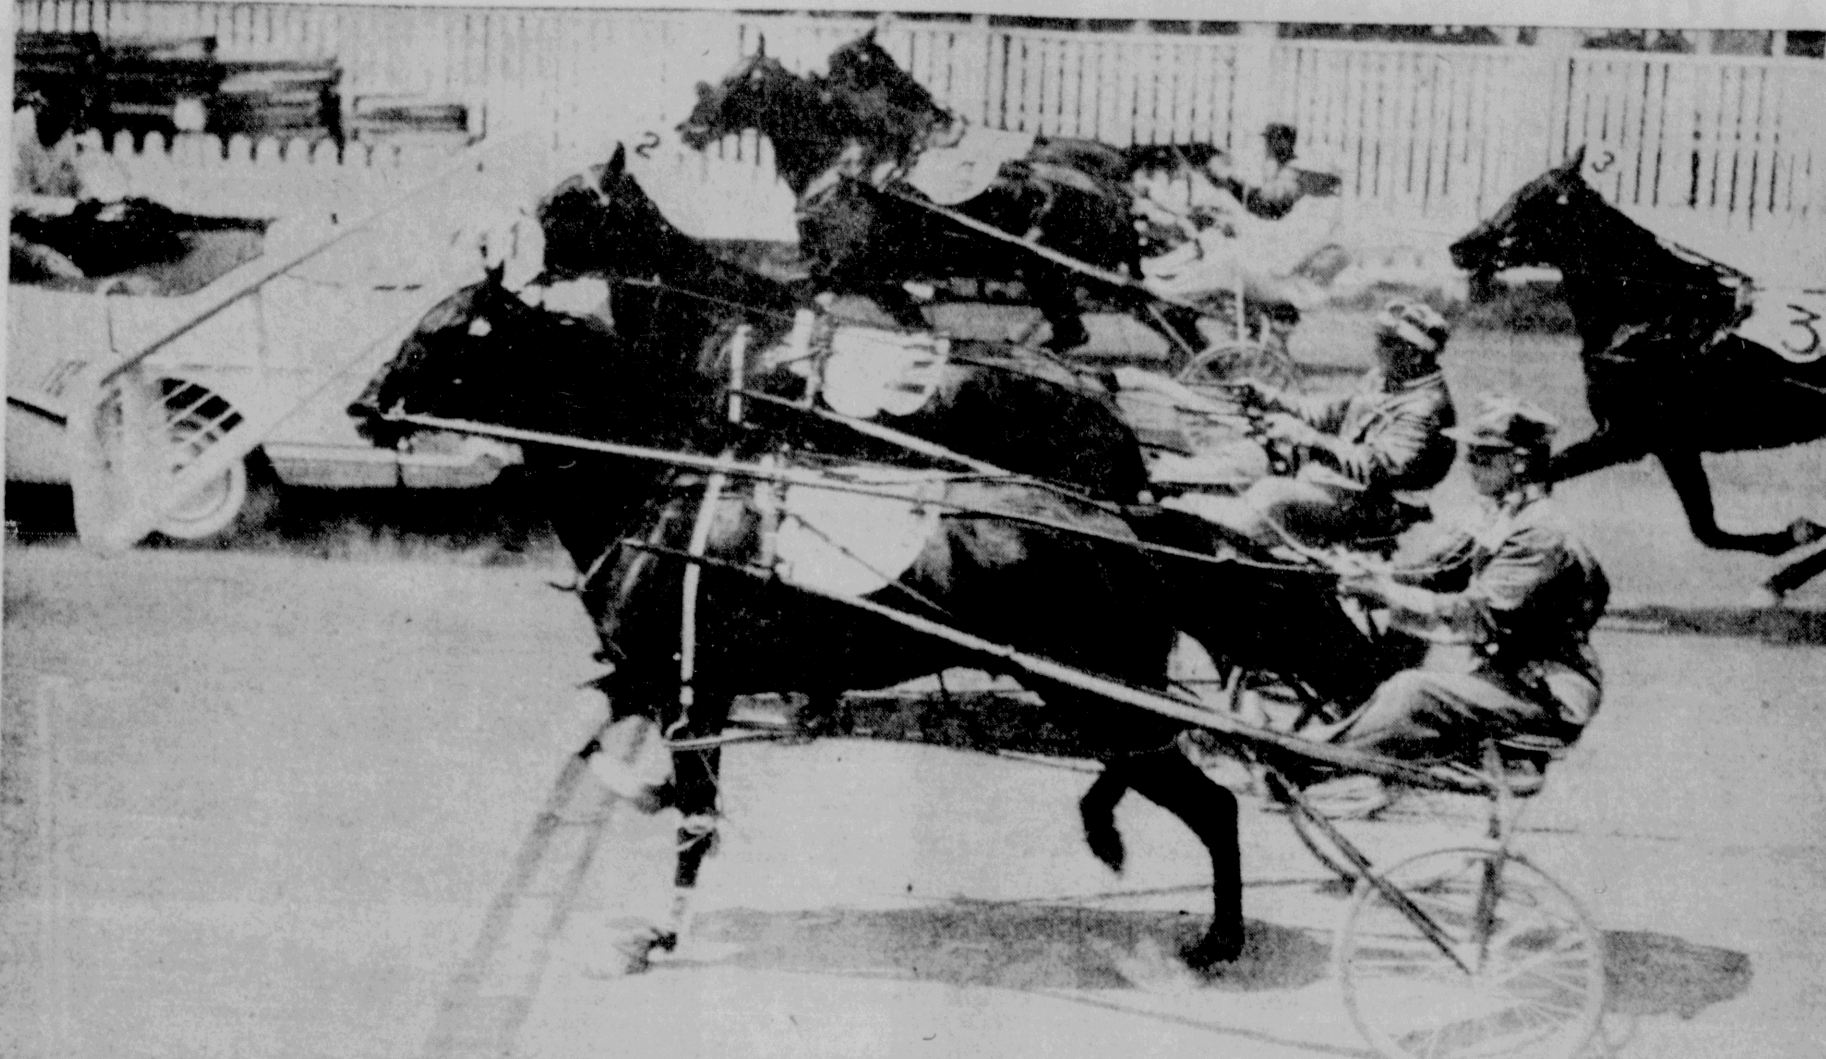

A walk, sacrifice and an error broke a 2-2 tie for the Redlegs in the ninth inning. Jerry Lynch's two-run homer gave the Reds an early lead, but Stan Musial's RBI singles tied it. Bob Purkey, hitting his major league high, won his 12th. Winless Chuck Stobbs, another AL veteran, lost his third in relief.

The Dodgers blew a 2-0 lead in the eighth, then scored five in the ninth. Junior Gilliam singled for two and Don Zimmer tripled for two. Clem Labine (3-1) won it and Jim Hearn (1-3) lost it, both in relief.

Hitting—Joe Cunningham, Cardinals, went 5-for-8 in two-night double-header split with the Redlegs, clubbing a two-run homer in a 5-4 first-game victory, doubling twice and scoring twice in 3-2 nightcap defeat.

Pitching—Curt Raydon, Pirates, rookie right-hander gave up only four singles and struck out seven while gaining his first major league shut-out with a 10-0 victory over the Giants. Hitting—Joe Cunningham, Cardinals, went 5-for-8 in two-night double-header split with the Redlegs, clubbing a two-run homer in a 5-4 first-game victory, doubling twice and scoring twice in 3-2 nightcap defeat.

Chisox Hand Delock First Loss In 11 Starts In Taking 11-6 Slugfest

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, paced by the slugging of Sherm Lollar, Jim Rivera and Jim Landis, kayoed previously unbeaten Boston right-hander Ike Delock Saturday and rolled to an 11-6 victory behind a 15-hit attack. Unbeaten since last August and holder of a 10-0 record, Delock was knocked out in a five-run fifth. He had won 13 straight since the same White Sox defeated him Aug. 24, 1957.

Lollar drove in three runs with his 13th homer, a single and a double and scored three times. Rivera clubbed his fifth homer with two on in the fifth and Landis tripled home a pair in the same inning. White Sox starter Ray Moore took an 8-1 lead into the sixth on a five-run uprising. But the Chicagoans put the game away in the seventh when they scored three runs on a hit batsman and singles by Ray Boone, Rivera, Turk Lown and Luis Aparicio.

Delock, Wall (5), Fornieles (6), Kieley (7) and White; Moore, Stanley (6), Lown (6), Wynn (9) and Lollar, W—Moore, L—Delock. Home runs — Chicago, Lollar (13), Rivera (5).

Little Leaguers Are Quick To Copy Ways Of Major Leaguers

By HUGH MILLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

The official rule book states it rather succinctly:

"Baseball is a game between two teams of nine players each with sufficient substitutes and coaches under direction of a manager and played in agreement with these rules under authority of an umpire or umpires on a regulation field."

To Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees that might seem a reasonable summation of the rudiments of the national pastime, but to the harried, hounded managers of any of the country's 60,000 Little League teams it misses the plate like a wild pitch.

Casey, for all his wealth of rany experience, never had to suffer a finger wagging diatribe from Mickey Mantle's mother for benching her darling in a slump, and he never had to dry the tears and hunk the nose of a 600 hitter who struck out with the bases loaded. No doubt Casey has his troubles, but they don't include a baserunner who elects to get thrown out in a hopeless steal because the call of the bathroom is stronger than the scorebook.

Little Leaguers are quick to copy the cap tugging, cleat tapping, hand wiping, multi-bat swinging antics of their major league idols.

When Don Larsen and Bob Turley discovered they got better control by abandoning the traditional windup, a thousand and more Little League pitchers, ages 9 to 12, made the same discovery.

When Ted Kluszewski removed his shirt sleeves to give greater freedom to his bulging biceps, midget first basemen from Seattle to the Virgin Islands performed similar surgery on their uniforms, much to the horror of sponsoring merchants who had to fork over anywhere from $500 to $300 to outfit a local team for the greater honor and glory of Schultz's Delicatessen or Luigi's Pizza Palace.

Dugout chats with a dozen Little League managers and officials confirm that most of them have become accustomed to most anything, from stray dogs in the infield to run-away baby carriages in the outfield.

So have the umpires, one of whom recently was sent flying, mask over which runner, when a barrel-shaped runner stole home while he was in the process of dusting off the plate, Little League's excellent insurance coverage took care of the injuries but did little for his wounded dignity.

Little League got started 20 years ago when Carl Stutz, a Williamsport, Pa., lumber yard employee formed the first teams because his nephews kept pestering him to play catch. Most of the early teams were centered in Pennsylvania, but in 1947 Stutz, searching for a rubber cleft shoe for his Little League players, persuaded the U.S. Rubber Co. to become sponsor and unofficial angel. Within a year, the number of teams had jumped from 60 to nearly 400.

By 1950 there were more than 1,000 teams and 10 times that many three years later. Today Little League diamonds, two-thirds the size of major league fields, are located in almost every part of the country, Mexico, Canada, Guam, Saudi Arabia, Puerto Rico, Japan and U.S. military installations the world over.

New leagues, limited to a population area of 10,000 are franchised by national headquarters in Williamsport, where the junior world series are held each August.

Any unsuspecting suburbanite who, after suitable overtures to his somewhat exaggerated collegiate athletic career (a little bragging at bridge will do it), agrees to assume management of a neighborhood club soon becomes convinced of two baseball absolutes that somehow escaped old Abner Doubleday!

Every mother wants her son to be a pitcher. Nobody wants to be a catcher. The trick in Little League is to preserve your managerial decorum and keep your language fit for children while (1) your only baserunner in five innings gets picked off first waving to his mother, and (2) your center fielder magnanimously tosses a fly ball he caught to a worshipful kid brother in the stand with two out and the bases loaded.

What about it, Casey! Care to try your skill at managing in the real high pressure leagues? And don't worry about the mothers. Little League rules stipulate that each dugout must have five protective helmets on hand at all times.

You can always grab one just in case, Casey.

Yankees Collect 7th Straight Victory In Whipping Indians, 8-3

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bill Skowron drove in four runs with a pair of singles Saturday as the New York Yankees rolled to their seventh straight triumph 8-3 over the Cleveland Indians.

The Yanks led 4-3 going into the ninth but turned on the power for four runs with six singles and a walk off relief pitchers Don Mossi and Morrie Martin, both left-handers.

The victory went to starter Duke Maas, who posted his first victory since being traded from Kansas City and his fifth in 12 decisions.

Cleveland picked up two unearned runs in the first inning. Maas, Shantz (7), Dittmar (7) and Howard, Woodeshick; Bell (8), Mossi (9), Martin (9) and Nixon, Porter (8), W—Maas, L—Woodeshick.

Giants Turn Tables On Pirates, Win 1-0

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The San Francisco Giants, shutout in their last two starts, turned the tables on the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday with a 1-0 triumph.

Southpaw Johnny Antonelli gained his 11th victory against eight defeats but needed help from veteran Merv Grissom.

Singles by Bob Schmidt and Antonelli, a sacrifice and a long fly ball by Willie Kirkland produced the lone run for the Giants in the third.

Antonelli was shaky throughout. In the seventh, Hank Folles led off with a double and moved to third on a sacrifice. Antonelli got Billy Virdon on a grounder but was struck after he walked Bob Clemente.

Grissom promptly struck out rookie home-run slugger Dick Stuart. The veteran right-hander faced 7 batters and struck out three.

Wife Becomes Ardent Fan In Sport Of Fishing

What's it like for a city feller to catch "keepers" on his first real fishing trip? Midwest AP Sports Editor Jerry Liska tells of a family nymrod invasion of Minnesota's Chippewa National Forest.

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—A city feller whose whole angling history was a casual wave at tiny crappies with a bamboo pole now has been bitten by the fishing bug—but good.

Deep in the heart of the Chippewa National Forest, just west and north of Grand Rapids, Minn., the writer and fireside-favoring spouse caught more than two-score greedy walleyes, northerners and bass.

In some half-dozen actual fishing days, we wielded spinning rigs with tremendous lack of skill, but the fish in the sparkling forest-rimmed lakes waited with surprising patience while we repaired lines parted on weeds, rocks, logs and bottoms.

Then they struck with foolish consistency. Oh, they weren't prize winners, but they were three and four pounders that bent your rod and fussed furiously. This is an indecible thrill to landlubbers who, before, were certain they had a bite.

Many stories spun themselves in this family invasion of Minnesota's north woods, but perhaps the astounding might be entitled: "The Day My Wife Became a Fisherman."

We were three days at rambling Lake Winnibigoshish when Catherine decided she would venture out.

The youngsters, aged 13 and 10, watched with amused glee as mother kept her head covered and refused to look at the bounding minnow.

Finally, out of sheer desperation, the Little Woman grabbed a spinning rod and wheeled a cast that resembled a Warren Spahn pitch, only sidearm yet. Everybody had to duck.

She began reeling in with the jerky touch of an amateur. Wham! The line tightened. The rod bent far over. "I'm stuck," she yelled. But she kept winding laboriously.

Soon, a fair-sized northern was thrashing alongside the boat. Right then and there, the light began gleaming in the wife's eyes. The light demanded "How long has this been going on?"

The delicate lady, who loils in a contour chair for her aching back at home, then proceeded to sit for hours in pelting rain in a rocky boat as she matched her cunning with the finny ones.

The Little Woman's recap of it all? "You should have seen the one that got away!"

About 500 gallons of oil were lost because of the leakage.

W. O. Randall, manager of city utilities, said it was necessary to shut down the motor until repairs were made. The plant has equipment for such repairs, which were started at once.

Concentrate Search Efforts In New Area

Civil Air Patrol authorities announced Saturday evening a change in the area in which a missing plane is believed to be down. The new area in which the plane is believed to have come down is as follows: all area enclosed by a line from Naples to Chaplin; thence south out of Chaplin to Winchester; west out of Winchester to the nine span river bridge at Florence; and then along the Illinois River to Naples.

Members of the Springfield and Tazewell squadrons have been conducting the search which is entering its fourth day. The officials continued the air and ground hunt over western Morgan county Saturday. They searched the Mercedosa - Arenzville area Thursday and the Mercedosa-Bluffs area Friday.

The plane, described as an olive green Army type L-17, left a Milwaukee airport July 11 and was believed to have carried four persons. Its destination was Des Moines, Iowa. The search was concentrated in the northern part of Illinois before an anonymous letter sent to the CAA office in Des Moines touched off the hunt in Morgan county.

So far the search has revealed nothing of importance. Anyone having any information concerning the plane should contact the Morgan county sheriff's office immediately.

Nation Produces More Milk - Illinois Less

Even though total U.S. milk production jumped 10 billion pounds from 1949 to 1956, Illinois was one of 14 states that showed a production drop, according to R. E. Jacobson, University of Illinois dairy marketing economist. But those producers who have continued in dairying are selling about one-third more milk, and each cow is producing about 1,400 more pounds of milk now than in 1949.

In Illinois, figures for the eight years from 1949 to 1956 show that farmers in only 20 Illinois counties boosted their production of milk and cream, while those in 82 counties showed a decrease.

Dairywomen have increased their milk output mainly in areas where they could sell it for higher prices. In the St. Louis milkshed, for example, Jacobson cites Clinton county in the St. Louis milkshed and Stephenson county in the Chicago area as two good examples. On the other hand, milk production has dropped in the counties where farmers sold most of their milk for manufacturing purposes or as cream. The number of farms selling cream has dropped by nearly two-thirds in just eight years.

Bulk milk tank installations on farms have forced producers in some areas to choose between buying a $2,000 tank or stopping milking. After a milk plant begins to receive bulk milk, it often stops accepting milk in cans. The economist reports that about 7,500 tanks have been installed on Illinois farms, more than in any other state except Wisconsin and Michigan.

Large bottling plants in the metropolitan areas have expanded their sales into smaller towns and cities. This increased competition has forced many smaller plants out of business, and dairywomen selling to these plants have lost their markets.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

CROP PROSPECTS

IN JULY

VERY GOOD

Crop prospects, nation wide, on July 15 were about the best ever for the date. Total crop production appeared likely to equal or exceed last year's all-time record, even though the acreage planted was the smallest in 40 years.

The only large areas of poor crops were along the Canadian border in Montana and North Dakota and in northern Michigan. In some other areas crop damage from flooding and ponding has been severe, but this is offset by better than usual crops on higher ground.

Wheat. Wheat is the BIG crop this year. Total production is estimated at 1,343 million bushels. This is about 40 per cent more than last year and only 1 per cent short of the all-time record crop produced in 1947. It is about 50 per cent greater than average harvests before price supports and "production controls" were begun 25 years ago. While production has increased some 50 per cent, our use of wheat for food has not changed materially.

COC stocks of wheat at the first of July totaled about 810 million bushels, up 1 per cent from a year before. Excess stocks of wheat, which have been squeezed down a bit in the past two years, will increase to a new record high by July 1, 1959.

Corn. Production of corn, the nation's key crop, was forecast on July 10 at 3,311 million bushels. This amount would be 3 per cent less than last year. The national average per acre yield was forecast at 45.2 bushels. Such a yield would be the third largest on record, being 1 1/2 bushels less than the 1957 yield and 1/2 bushel less than that of 1956.

Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota are contributing heavily to the 1958 corn crop prospects. The Iowa crop was forecast at 597 million bushels, 12 per cent more than the 10-year average. Expected per acre yield in Nebraska is 40 per cent greater than average. Minnesota has both above average acreage and yield.

Stocks of old corn on farms on July 1, estimated at 1,026 million bushels, were 9 per cent smaller than one year before. However, uncommitted COC stocks were around 1,025 million bushels, or 30 per cent greater than last year. Thus COC stocks, farm stocks and new crop prospects add up to 5,213 million bushels, only 1 per cent less than last year.

Oats. The 1958 oat crop was estimated at 1,255 million bushels, 4 per cent less than the crop of 1957. Average acre yield was 39.3 bushels, 2 bushels more than last year and a new record.

Stocks of old oats on farms July 1 were estimated at 275 million bushels, 45 per cent more than one year before. Farm stocks plus new crop added up to 1,530 million bushels, 2 per cent more than the previous year.

Sorghum. The acreage of sorghums is 20 per cent less than last year, but acre yields have not yet been estimated. Farm stocks were estimated at 28 million bushels, only 5 per cent of the record crop harvested last fall. COC, however, had 163 million bushels, nearly four times as much as the year before. If 1958 acre yields equal those of last year, the total supply of sorghum grain will be near the record high for 1957-58.

Soybeans. Acreage is up 12 per cent from last year, but there is yet no official estimate of acre yields or total production. Farm stocks on July 1 totaled 27 million bushels, 10 million less than one year before. Uncommitted COC stocks were about 15 million bushels, 11 million more than the year before.

The Farm Pond - Water, Fish And Fun

Although the creeks are running full and the wells are full of water the farmers of Morgan county are very much "pond conscious" and more than 350 of them turned out Tuesday to visit two farm ponds. The majority of them were interested in the farm pond from the standpoint of fishing recreation "right at home."

Farm Adviser George A. Trull and Farm Planner Ted Pierce of the Soil Conservation Service were in charge of the tour. This photograph shows part of the crowd that turned up at the Gus Valley farm, tented by John L. Curtis, northeast of Concord. The boat is manned by Al Lopinot, chief fish biologist, of Litchfield and Paul Norfleet, Orleans farmer. They are "shocking" fish in the half-acre pond to check the fish population and how it is thriving.

Pierce explained the construction of the pond, which was built in 1954 and stocked with largemouth bass and blue gills the same fall.

About 10 acres of land drain into the pond, which has a maximum depth of 13 feet of water. There is a filter in the bottom of the pond and a pipe runs through the dam to carry water to a livestock tank.

Wallace Hembrugh, manager of the ASC office, spoke briefly on the assistance the agency can give to help the property owner who desires to build a pond. Approved ponds bring government aid at about $250 on the average, with a top of $400 in this county.

"It won't always be this wet," he asserted, "and we are willing to help in any way we can."

Valley rejoined, "A pond is just as important in wet weather as it is in dry seasons. It helps slow down the run-off."

Lopinot discussed on what it takes to produce good fishing in farm ponds.

"Usually they're not very good. The state is willing to stock all approved farm ponds with fingerling bass and bluegills, about 50 of each to the acre, but the management of the pond depends upon the owner."

"Crappies are not recommended," he continued, "because they will soon overpopulate a pond. No bullheads or yellow bellies are wanted either, because they keep the bottom of the pond riled. Carp, buffalo and sunfishes are undesirable also."

"Good ponds will produce half-pound bass in two years after stocking and the fish will never quit growing as long as the environment is kept correct."

"All aquatic plants should be killed. Emergence water plants should be sprayed with 5% solution of 2, 4-D just before blooming. Algae may be controlled by adding six pounds of copper sulphate per surface acre and underwater weeds may be eradicated by sodium arsenite, but this ruins the water for livestock for a week or 10 days."

"Muddy water is not good for fish, so keep down erosion by putting the watershed in permanent cover. Barnyard drainage is also very dangerous. Fence the stock away from the pond and we don't recommend fertilizing Illinois ponds," the biologist asserted.

Norfleet is shown here netting a pond and a half bass that had been momentarily knocked out by a jolt of electricity from the electrode slanting through the water in the left foreground. Several bass of that size were found, but apparently there was no spawn last year. The blue gills in the Valley pond were not in good shape, Lopinot said, and are showing the effects of over-population. He suggested trapping the surplus and perhaps seining the pond next fall to remove the excess.

The principal trouble with farm ponds is that they are under-fished, Lopinot said.

"Never throw back a blue gill. It's O.K. to throw back bass the first year or two, but not after that."

"You can't fish out a good pond. Many farmers hesitate to ask the state to stock their ponds because they understand that they must permit everybody to fish there. That is not the case. All we require is that the owner of the pond consent to permit a reasonable amount of fishing."

"Pond owners should encourage their friends and all their relatives to fish. To do it right, the owner should develop easy access, a parking area, a stable over the fence, for fishermen, by and large, are a rather lazy lot. It's impossible to over-fish a good farm pond with hook and line, and if enough fish are removed each year the pond will be productive for years. Let it get over-populated and there won't be any fish in the pond."

During the afternoon some 150 persons visited the Clyde Oxley pond near Nortonville. This is a much bigger reservoir, with a normal area of 12 acre feet and 17.7 acre feet before the water reaches the overflow level.

Sept. 11 Agronomy Day At University Farm

Featured in this year's field day are new developments in hybrid corn breeding, including high-oil and high-protein types, dwarf corn and a special type called tetraploid. For soybean growers, research workers will show the newest varieties, row spacing and plant population tests, water use research and experiments with gibberellic acid on soybeans. Other tour stops will include tests with different types of nitrogen fertilizers, corn root growth studies, rotations and soil treatments, alfalfa varieties, minimum tillage, grain sorghums and broomcorn.

The University Agronomy Farm is located on the south edge of the University of Illinois campus at Champaign-Urbana. Visitors can also visit the world-famous Morrow Plots—America's oldest soil experiment field—located near the center of the campus. More than 1,200 persons attended the first Agronomy Day, held in June 1957. This year the date has been changed to September so that visitors can get a better view of corn and soybean research at this time of year.

How's That? A Tomato And Potato On Same Vine!

This department must apologize to the Jacksonville man who thought he had discovered two-level agriculture.

Last week he left an unusual potato plant at the Journal Courier office. One of the girls took his name and address and put it on the spike of the farm editor's desk. Somehow or other, it disappeared.

The unusual plant attracted considerable attention. In the roots was a good-sized potato and stems indicated that four other tubers had been removed. On the vine, however, were two small, green "tomatoes."

Many viewers exclaimed, "Think of it, potatoes and tomatoes on the same plant!"

They weren't tomatoes, however. They were potato seed balls, which are not at all uncommon, but are scarce enough to arouse interest whenever found. Sifting the ball with a knife clearly showed the vast number of tiny seeds developing just under the rind.

The tomato, though, is a true fruit, with the seed surrounded by a watery pulp.

True, you can see tomatoes on a potato vine, but that is the result of a successful graft by a skilled workman. The two plants are rather close relatives, botanically speaking, and are first cousins of the deadly nightshade. This relationship slowed the acceptance of the two fine foods.

Did Dare To Decline
It is recorded that the English regarded the potato as poisonous and would have nothing to do with it. Then Sir Francis Drake prevailed upon Queen Elizabeth to serve them at a state dinner and in those days no one could decline to eat what was on the Queen's table. As is the custom today, those who dine with betters like to blow about the event and thus, within a short time, everybody was eating potatoes. Tomatoes, too, had a tough time being accepted. Up to 60 years ago, and even 50, many people regarded them as poisonous and wouldn't touch them.

Botanically, another near cousin is the tobacco plant, which was accepted with gusto right from the start. This fact makes some people regard the world as the most peculiar of all possible worlds.

When mature each seed ball will have 100 to 300 seeds. Often they vary much in shape and color. The seeds will not reproduce true to type, but they do have a remarkable tendency to revert to wild form, producing tubers that are round and about the size of a walnut.

One Was Different

century. Standard varieties planted in Alaska always grew to be big, immense, watery and almost tasteless. The tubers often weighed five or six pounds and were called "water babies."

But at Circle City, just inside the Arctic Circle, a Catholic priest found a seed ball growing on an Early Ohio vine. He allowed it to mature, dried it and canned for it through the long winter. In the spring he planted the seeds. About 12 of them germinated.

All of them, save one, was worthless. But that one was a wonderful potato, solid, thin skinned, about as big as an average man's fist and weighing a pound apiece. It was a strong yielder and extremely good eating.

Today it is known as the Arctic Seedling and is grown throughout Alaska and the northern sections of Canada.

So the next time you see a potato seed ball, perhaps you should care for it. Who knows, perhaps you, too, could produce a superior potato?

Studies show that 70 to 80 per cent of the insect infestations in stored wheat arise because insects are already in the bin when the new wheat is stored.

Encore For IGY

Most of the time the things they have been doing have not made headlines or even front pages. Yet in the end their labors may prove more fruitful for mankind than 90 per cent of the efforts that have had the glare of public attention.

We're talking about the 10,000 scientists who for a solid year have been combing the earth's surface—land, water and air—in search of knowledge never heretofore possessed by man, for all his prying through the centuries of history.

These scientists, toiling in a vast cooperative effort called the International Geophysical Year, have thus far turned up countless remarkable discoveries in nearly every field of science.

Many of these will have no practical value now or in the foreseeable future. But many will. And all have the intangible merit of sharpening man's thinking about his planet home, giving him as they do a broader, deeper grasp of its strange workings and its relation to other planets, the sun and to space itself.

One of the big surprises, for instance, has been the discovery in the southeast Pacific that millions of square miles of ocean floor are strewn with needle-like projections of iron, manganese, nickel and cobalt worth about $500,000 a square mile and considered recoverable.

In a world where growing millions of people seem to be in a race with the earth's resources, this is no minor find. Long-term trends in climate and weather are vital matters to mankind. They affect what he can produce and where, and how he must live in various areas of the earth.

A decisive factor in these trends is the size and depth and spread of the world's ice regions. Thus it is important that searching scientists now find they may have previously underestimated by about 40 per cent the volume of ice covering the earth. They have found ice on Antarctica up to 14,000 feet deep.

Under the ocean the probes have found great new mountain ranges, and flowing eastward through the Pacific a powerful "river" whose current is 1,000 times stronger than the Mississippi's.

Already heralded is the amazing discovery of a huge radiation belt in outer space, ranging from 600 to 4,000 miles out. The product of great currents of electrically charged particles spewed out by the sun, this band can interrupt radio communications and is believed to cause the celebrated aurora borealis—the northern and southern lights in the sky.

What a pity the energetic explorations of the Geophysical Year are to go on for just another six months. We have mapped a mere 2 per cent of the ocean floor. There is much searching to be done everywhere.

Why can't there be a vast geophysical study at least every 10 years? Man needs to know this earth better if he is to make it serve his mounting millions.

Ah, Wilderness!

"Camping has gotten soft in the last 20 to 30 years." So says an official of the American Boy Scouts, Mr. David Dunbar.

Seems some scout leaders are "babysitting" boys at camps that are equipped with such modern conveniences as dish washing machines, potato peelers, hot showers, deep freezers and heated cabins. With air mattresses, even.

Dunbar, Assistant National Director of Camping, recommends instead that camps be run along more primitive lines, with scouts pitching their own tents and cooking their own meals. "Roughing it," that is.

But modern conveniences or not, if we recall our own camping experiences correctly, there's nothing like the sudden appearance of a friendly skunk in the middle of the camp to get things back to the primitive.

scheduled to sign the register are Lucy and Desi themselves, and Jim Arness.

The new series will find Ann on TV every week, whereas she used to alternate with Jack Benny with Private Secretary. She'll have to film 32 shows, and that will keep her hopping until next March.

"I've got a beautiful house waiting for me at Sun Valley, but I won't get to see it except for a three-week vacation," she sighed.

"Yes, I'm going to produce the series myself," she said. "I don't know exactly how I got into this. I'm really more interested in what I'm doing before the camera than with worries about scripts, dressing rooms, casting and so forth."

But she's plunging right into the new series. It's called, of all things, The Ann Sothern Show.

"That's against my wishes," she commented. "I wanted to sell 'Career Girl.' But everybody told me people would refer to it as 'The Ann Sothern Show' anyway."

"I think we have great prospects for a powerhouse lineup on CBS Monday nights. First will come 'Father Knows Best,' then Danny Thomas and my show, followed by 'Desilu Playhouse'."

Ann gets out from behind the typewriter this time. She plays the assistant manager at a swank New York hotel, Ernest Truex in the funny manager and Reta Shaw his amply proportioned wife. There are several wacky continuing characters to enliven the fun. And since it's a hotel, there's no end to the new figures who can be introduced.

Among those who are already planned. "But there's an unwritten White House rule that prohibits the president from going to cocktail parties. We would miss seeing you at all the receptions."

"If I got elected," Green answered, "that unwritten rule is one of the first things that I'd change."

HENRI COQUILLAND, czar of the French Bureau National du Cognac, was in town the other day for his first visit. He went to the Senate and found only one senator on the floor. It was Minnesota's Hubert Humphrey, and he was making a speech to himself.

M. Coquilland wanted to know where the other 95 senators were. Then he saw that there were 16 page boys present, and he wanted to know why they weren't in school.

The main reason for the brandy man's visit to Washington, however, was that he wanted to see the city that is third largest cognac consumer in the country. Only New York and Chicago drink more. Washington even outranks Hollywood and its suburb, Los Angeles.

WE CALLED a government official the other morning and the following conversation transpired with his secretary:

"I'm sorry, but he's not in now. Would you care to leave a message?"

"When do you expect him?"

"Oh, he's taking his annual leave now and won't be back until late next month."

CHARLES THOMAS, former Secretary of the Navy who has been named new president of Trans World Airlines, will probably be called upon to do more than fly planes in that job. He'll be in a good spot to act as fashion adviser to Howard Hughes, the principal stockholder and real boss of TWA.

Thomas was once head of a large men's clothing manufacturing firm and was rated as one of Washington's best dressed males. Hughes, on the other hand, is noted for his creaseless trousers and baggy suits.

First, there is the total thermonuclear war; second, the limited war; and third, a general war of great extent, involving the use of atomic weapons but still not . . . thermonuclear.

The Soviets are preparing for all three. It would be folly if we did less.

—Maj. Gen. John P. Daley, director of Army's special weapons research.

The Chinese embassy's recent reception for Madame Chiang Kai-shek, one of the guests advised 90-year-old Sen. Theodore F. Green (D-R.I.) never to run for president.

"Why?" the senator asked. "Do you think I'm too old?"

"Of course not," the guest replied.

"Wherever have you been keeping yourself? I simply never see you any more."

"I've always liked that dress you're wearing."

"I don't see how you find the time to do all you do. It keeps me busy just looking after my family."

"I envy you your job. I wish Jim would let me work, but he has the silly old-fashioned notion that a wife's place is at home."

"You've got a better disposition than I have. I wouldn't take that for a minute."

"I think it's marvelous the way you never let anything upset you. I'd be worried to death if I were you."

"Your hair is so pretty. I simply adore gray hair. I think you're so wise not to dye it."

"You've done a marvelous job as club president. It's a shame there aren't more members who appreciate all you've done."

From one woman to another such remarks could be compliments. But they usually aren't.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—This has been an almost weird seven months in high diplomacy. During most of that time—until now—it would have been hard to find anyone willing to bet a dime on a summit conference in 1958.

Now it seems assured. But at a price. The Soviets have scored a smashing propaganda victory by forcing the conference. The United States practically had to be dragged into it.

It remains to be seen—after the results are known—whether the conference turns out to be a farce and this country was right in its reluctance to meet with Premier Khrushchev.

There is no exact parallel in history for these past seven months. They produced a shower of letters between President Eisenhower and Khrushchev, hair-splitting and the kind of progress that never, until now, amounted to anything except one step forward and one step back. In short, nothing.

The Soviets started it last December with a letter to Eisenhower, proposing a meeting at the top. The administration thought it could brush it off by letting a press officer dismiss it as propaganda before the State Department released a translation of the Soviet note.

This cavalier treatment didn't work. Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were quickly shaken out of that attitude by the reaction of American allies who wanted much more serious attention given the Soviet proposal.

Nevertheless, Eisenhower and Dulles dallied about answering it, giving the Soviets almost a solid month in which to parade before the world as unanswered peace-lovers.

And before Eisenhower finally got off his reply to the first Soviet note, the Soviet sent another. Even Dulles by then indicated the Soviets were beating us in propaganda. The administration decided to be a little quicker in the future.

Then began the rain of letters, with the Soviets urging haste and Eisenhower taking the position there should not be a summit meeting until there had been adequate preparation for it and all sides agreed thoroughly on what they'd discuss.

Without such preparation, of course, a summit meeting could turn into a shooting gallery. But the whole idea seemed to collapse last month when the Soviets suddenly broke off negotiations with Western ambassadors in Moscow on preparations for a summit get-together.

They did this at a time when—for a reason not yet clear—both sides abruptly turned toward in all directions. For a time, they appeared not to care what the rest of the world thought. Whatever propaganda gains they had made were suddenly being thrown away.

But Khrushchev saw a new and golden chance to score on the West—and look advantage of it fast—when American troops were sent into Lebanon and British troops into Jordan at the request of the heads of government of both countries.

Khrushchev moved fast, but not in haste. The American troops went in July 15. Khrushchev waited until July 19 before issuing another call for a summit meeting, this time to avoid war in the Mideast.

Those few days' delay gave him time to see what world reaction was to the American move. It was far from universally good. Thus he was able to know for sure he was hitting a widely popular chord when he wrote his summit letter.

The Eisenhower administration still didn't want any part of sitting down with Khrushchev. But the British did. This left it up to Eisenhower to split with Britain or trail along behind her. He reluctantly agreed to a meeting.

But this meeting—perhaps within three weeks—will almost certainly be the kind Eisenhower never wanted: one without thorough preparation or agreement on what will be discussed.

It has puzzled me why anyone, above all a professing Christian, should be opposed to social action by the churches, or should seek in any way to drive a wedge between evangelism and social action.

If pressed evangelism is opposed to social action it is so much the worse for it, for it lacks the reality of true evangelism both in its nature and results.

Christian evangelism means the winning of decisions creating the new life in Christ.

All Too Easy for Oldsters

BY MARIE DAERR

How to make enemies and alienate people as you grow older? INSIST on talking about the good old days when, as you recall, things were infinitely better than they are now. Maybe they were better, in some ways. Maybe they were worse, in others. At any rate, you'll be lots more popular if you can talk about Spunkies, as well as the World's Fair of 1893.

MONOPOLIZE the conversation with your ailments. People of all ages get awfully tired about hearing how your arthritis and blood pressure are behaving. There are hundreds of more interesting subjects.

CRITICIZE the younger generation with stories of "Now, when I was young." Maybe time's passing has polished up those memories a bit. Could it be that you, too, did a bit of cutting up when you were a youngster—and maybe even made a trip or two to the woodshed?

TELL salespeople, "They just don't make merchandise nowadays the way they used to." Maybe so, maybe not. But it isn't the clerk's fault. If you feel strongly about a product, write a letter to the manufacturer.

REFUSE to try a new experience. There's nothing to keep you from playing your first game of canasta, reading your first who-dunit or taking your first airplane ride at age 80.

DEVELOP food fussiness that has no rhyme or reason. "I never eat asparagus—or rice—or cherries," sounds childish, unless, of course, you're following doctor's orders. It certainly doesn't endear you to your hostess, if you're dining out.

CLING to relics of the past. The artificial flowers your best friend gave you 30 years ago may have sentimental value. But they're pretty dingy by now. Why not toss them out or at least put them in a bottom drawer for a while? Give something new and fresh a chance.

SCORN the hearing aid you know you need. You're no help to conversation if you must have words repeated, sit in silence and ignorance. A hearing aid is as important, and as accepted, as spectacles these days.

BE UNTIDY about your appearance. When you are older, it's even more important to be sure your collar-and-cuff set is spotless and your necktie doesn't sport a trace of breakfast egg.

Q—How disabled do you have to be to receive disability benefits or have social security records frozen?—R. M.

A—To meet the disability requirements, you must submit medical evidence that shows: (1) you have a physical or mental condition so serious it prevents you from doing any substantial gainful work; (2) your disability has lasted six months and is expected to continue indefinitely.

Q—We'd like to take my parents, in their 80s, on an auto trip. But we are a little worried about whether it is wise for them to ride a long distance. What would you advise?—J. L.

A—Ask your family doctor whether he thinks it is wise for your parents to take the trip. If he says yes, he will probably add that long trips should be broken up by brief stops for exercise. A short walk every hour or so keeps blood from "pooling" in the legs.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Social Evangelism

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
Can anyone imagine the true awakening of that new life without a corresponding quickening of interest in the welfare of others, and in the betterment of the social environment?

The Apostle John distinctly defined the nature of the new life in Christ: "We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren" (I John 3:14).

I am certain that despite all criticism on the part of professed evangelicals it is love of their fellow men that underlies Christianity. The evidence of it is in the lives of all those who have worked against injustice and wrong and in behalf of a better society.

Defense of social action on the part of the churches does not mean that every measure advocated or every action is inherently wise or properly determined in its results. Sound intentions and proper motives are not in themselves effective.

Every proposal of social betterment, regardless of its advocates, must have its justification in its inherent soundness and in its power to achieve its purpose.

It must be remembered that Christian social action must go deeper into causes, seeking not merely the betterment, but the transformation of society.

Instead of an evangelism against social action we need a social evangelism—the transformation of new individual lives into a community of new lives.

Marinades and Bastes Play Important Barbecuing Roles

By GAYNOR MADDOX.
Three years ago Helen Evans Brown and James A. Beard came to the rescue of outdoor cooks with a helpful volume called "The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery."

It is still one of the best guides to grilling over charcoal. The section on marinades and bastes is worth re-reading for the summer of 1958 patio dining.

A marinade is a thin sauce in which food is marinated, or soaked, before it is cooked. A baste is the sauce that is brushed or sprinkled on the food while it is cooking. Although they are often one and the same, marinades are designed to add seasonings that will more or less penetrate the flesh and also tenderize it. Bastes are used to give the food a distinctive flavor on the outside and to lubricate it to prevent dryness.

Soy Sauce Marinade and Baste (for almost any poultry or shellfish, and for pork, veal and beef): Combine equal parts of soy sauce or shoyu, sherry or whisky (or sake), and oil, such as sesame, peanut or corn. This may also have garlic and/or grated ginger added.

Vermouth Marinade and Baste (an all-purpose one, for any meat, game or poultry): Combine equal parts of Italian or French vermouth and olive oil.

Barbecue Marinade and Baste (for those who like a highly seasoned sauce for meat and poultry): Combine one 8-ounce can of tomato sauce, 1 teaspoon each of dry mustard, sugar and salt; 1 tablespoon each of Worcestershire sauce and vinegar; 1 cup of red wine, 1 clove of garlic, pressed or grated, and Tabasco to taste. Simmer 10 minutes and strain.

For a baste, add 1 cup of oil.

Pepper Barbecue Marinade and Baste (for hamburgers, steaks and chops): Combine one 8-ounce can of tomato juice with 1 cup each of olive oil, chopped green pepper and chopped green onion. Add 3 cloves of garlic, pressed, and 1 tablespoon (or more) of chili powder, and salt to taste. Finish as in preceding recipe.

MONDAY'S DINNER: Charcoal broiled hamburgers, basted with pepper marinade; split and toasted long white rolls, French fried potatoes, corn-on-cob, sliced peaches, brown sugar and cream, cookies, coffee, tea, milk.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ann Sothern and Lucille Ball were walking together along a street at Desilu Studios.

"Don't you get a funny feeling in this place," said Lucille, gazing around her.

"I sure do," said Ann. "We used to be starlets together when the studio was RKO. Now you own the place and I'm a producer."

It's a curious turn of events, but then, that's show business. Lucille and her husband Desi Arnaz became owners of the studio through the success of "I Love Lucy" and their other TV ventures.

We're Ready For The PONYTAIL Contest At The Fair

Long and Short of It

Barbara and Patty Luttrell, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Luttrell, 504 East Lafayette avenue, offer the 'long and short' versions of the Pony Tail. Patty is at the left in the picture. The sisters will be among the more than 70 young people, 6 through 16 years, competing at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening, July 31, at the Grandstand Performance at Morgan County Junior Fair.

How Do We Look?

Having just had their locks arranged by the Pony Tail Contest chairman, Wilma Smith Colclasure, the three young ladies above are looking forward to the fun in competing in the contest Thursday night. Left to right, Janet Kay Brummett, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brummett, 138 Sandusky street; Karen Fuchs, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fuchs of Alexander and Georgiana Coats, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coats, 1620 South Diamond street.

Where's the Pony Tails?

Pity the Judges

With such charming coiffures as those displayed above judges will have no small task in making awards Thursday night. Left is 8 year old Judy Waggener, center is her sister, Diane, age six, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Waggener, 882 Case avenue. In right foreground is six year old Mary Rae Wallbaum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wallbaum, Jacksonville route two.

Pony Tails Popular with 12 Year Olds

No matter what 'type' one is a Pony Tail is usually complimentary. Three twelve year olds prove the statement in the above picture. Left to right, Kay Crow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crow of Franklin; Judy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith on Mound Road and Diane Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Scott, 924 North Prairie street. The Pony Tail'ers will wear conventional street clothes for their appearance on the ramp before the Grandstand when five will be named as prize winners.

Here They Are!!

They were really there all the time, just out of view. Carole's Pony Tail is still on the left and Patty, right. All of the contestants will be identified Thursday night with little white badges holding real hair miniature Pony Tails tied with red ribbon. The Pony Tail'ers urge all their friends to 'ride herd' on the Grandstand Thursday night and see the contest.

Alexander's Animals

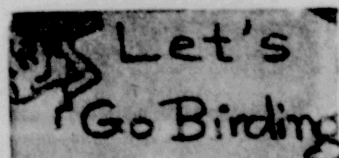

Alexander didn't have a dog, a cat or even a white mouse to play with but he did have a prickly porcupine, a penguin, a crocodile, a giraffe and an elephant.

These strange pets, however, always disappeared when his Mother came out so she thought that he must be lonesome. One day when he came into the house she said, "Look what I found."

Can you guess what it was? The best playmate of all—a real live puppy!

What happened to the other pets? Oh, they wandered on for they knew they'd find another child who needed a prickly porcupine, a penguin, a crocodile, a giraffe and an elephant to play with.

This story of "Alexander's Animals" which Miss Barbara Hobbs wrote and for which she made the pictures (she used to teach art at Illinois College) is one that you will enjoy reading for yourself.

THE HUMMINGBIRD

By Emma Mae Leonhard

"Which kind of hummingbird did I see last night?" This question is often asked of us.

In the first place, we usually reply with the question: "Are you sure that you saw a hummingbird last night?" Naturally, the person is quite sure that he did see one, not only one but several.

The question includes two details: the kind of hummingbird and the time that it was seen.

The kind of hummingbird is easy to answer. It was a Ruby-throated Hummingbird, the only species of such a bird that is found east of the Rocky Mountains.

However, we doubt then that the person saw a hummingbird, for it seldom if ever flies after the sun is down. In the garden at twilight, where there are white petunias or fragrant flowers, we often see visitors that whirl here and there with the astonishing flight to that of a hummingbird. These twilight visitors to flowers are undoubtedly hawk moths also probing into the flowers for nectar.

As we travel west of the Mississippi we can find at least a dozen kinds of hummers, all the way from the tiny Calliope to the large Rivoli's. Here we can enjoy only one kind, the Ruby-throated. This is a comforting fact, for the different kinds are hard to distinguish.

Smallest Bird Here
The Ruby-throated Hummingbird is the smallest of our birds in this area, a little more than three inches long. It is a metallic green above; the male has a glowing red throat, and the female a white throat.

However, we don't always see that ruby throat of the male. Sometimes the hummer will perch on a little dead twig or a dried seed stem of a tall weed right before us.

When it twists its head and needle-like bill to the right or left, and the sun catches the feathers at just the right angle, that ruby throat glows the reddest of reds. Then we can say that we have seen the ruby throat.

Watch These Flowers
At the present time look for the Ruby-throated Hummingbird at the late salvia, piloxes, jewelweed, and cardinal flower. Earlier they haunted our native red and yellow columbine and our trumpet vines.

They seem to like brightly colored flowers, although they will probe into the fragrant white flowers of tuberoses. Perhaps it is the tube or trumpet part of the flower which holds the nectar that attracts the hummer. By the way, the hummer also eats the tiny insects that hang around such flowers.

Hummingbirds may be whirring, dinging, or sipping, they are worth looking for—our tiniest jewel-like bird.

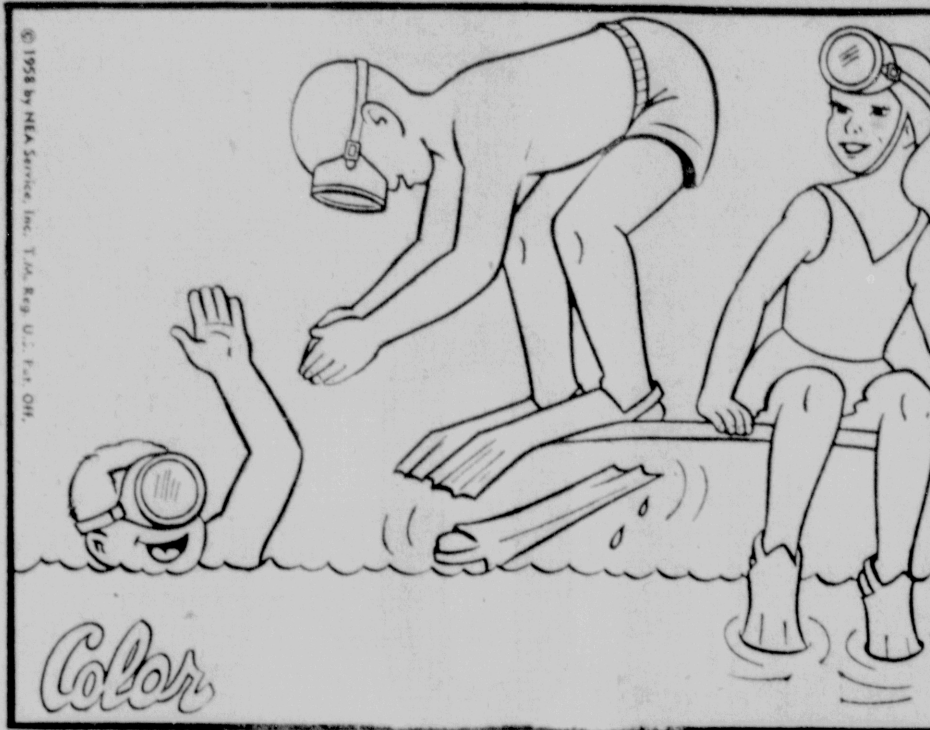

FINE SURPRISE

WILLARD, Ohio (AP)—Motorists who came to the police station here recently to pay overtime parking fines got a surprise. As part of its 25th anniversary celebration, a Willard bank arranged to pay all parking fines for the day.

Robert Hare

By Walter B. Hendrickson

Makes Blowtorch
One of the early chemists in the United States was Robert Hare, born in Philadelphia in 1871.

As a boy he was much interested in natural science, and while he worked in his father's brewery, he took courses in chemistry and physical science at the University of Pennsylvania under the pioneer teacher, James Woodhouse.

There were many men in Philadelphia interested in chemistry and they formed the Chemical Society of Philadelphia. The Society met frequently and the members talked over their experiments.

One of the problems that chemists everywhere were trying to solve was how to generate high heat so that more substances could be melted or decomposed. Hare, who fully accepted the idea of the French chemist, Lavoisier, that things burned because they were heated in the presence of oxygen, did much experimenting in burning various substances.

Among the things he tried was burning hydrogen gas in oxygen. He found that by doing this, he could produce a very hot flame.

In 1801 he took this idea to the Chemical Society, and a committee of which Hare was a member was appointed to perfect an oxy-hydrogen blowtorch, by which oxygen and hydrogen were mixed under pressure and then ignited.

The oxy-hydrogen blowtorch became a most useful tool of the chemist and metallurgist, and Hare's book on the use of the torch was a standard for many years.

Used In Welding
Today this principle is applied in the process known as welding, except that acetylene gas is used instead of hydrogen.

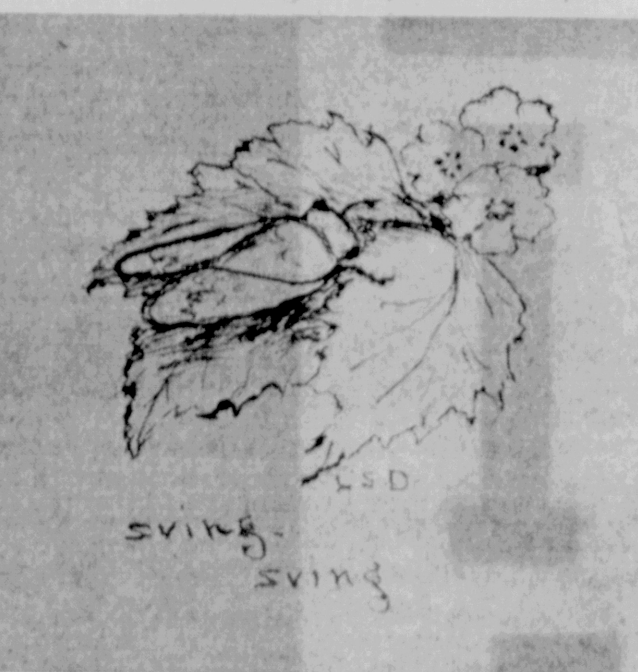

In 1818 Robert Hare became professor of chemistry at the University of Pennsylvania. Always an earnest experimenter, he devised ingenious apparatus to carry them out. Some of the chemical apparatus he developed became standard in chemical laboratories and was used for decades.

Hare became much interested in galvanic batteries, which are instruments for producing electricity by chemical action. (The electricity produced by a flash light battery is produced by chemical action.)

One of his inventions was later used by Faraday, the great English scientist who discovered the principle of electrical induction. Robert Hare is thus representative of a large number of Americans whose work laid the foundations for modern chemistry.

Part I: Mother's Story
Huckie and Jeannie live in a house in Chicago that is square like a box and is made of stone.

Seven steps march up to a little porch, open to the sky. It has wide stone banisters where the children love to sit.

In a little patch of yard beside the stone steps one little old red-bark tree grows.

There is a little back yard behind the square stone house; as little as huckie's and Jeannie's playroom.

Now this little back yard is all edged in. A high wrought iron gate is kept locked at the street-edge so that Huckie's dog, Jack the Beagle Hound, Can't play on the boulevard!

But Jeannie's cat, Kitten White Often prowls over the back-yard-sate

And goes hunting in the alley. One noon, the first of June, Huckie and Jack the Beagle, and Jeannie with Kitten White, were sitting on the broad banister of their little stone front porch, waiting for Daddy to come to lunch, when they heard a summer Cicada singing its swing song somewhere

What's A Planetarium?

By Ray Broeckel

Part I: Do You Look At Stars?
Looking up at the stars in wonderment is something that boys and girls have been doing for many hundreds of years. If you'd ask your father, mother, grandfather or grandmother, I'm sure they'd tell you they wondered, just like you, about the lights in the sky that we call stars.

Perhaps you are acquainted with some of the constellations that are in the sky. Constellations, you will remember are nothing more than groups of stars in the sky that seem to fit together into some sort of pattern.

Perhaps you are familiar with the Big Dipper, the Little Dipper, Draco the Dragon, or Orion the mighty hunter. Once you have identified a few constellations they will be up there in the sky to greet you like old friends every time you look up. Naturally, this will depend upon what time of night it is and what season of the year it is.

Since our earth moves on a path almost the shape of a circle through the sky, different constellations will be seen depending on where the earth happens to be. A good example of this would be to compare this to a short trip you might take in your car. You would start out from your house and come back to your house. The things you would see on your trip would depend on where you happened to be.

One Thing Wrong
There is only one thing wrong with looking at the stars, however. That is that you can't see movements and changes in just one night of viewing.

Of course you could see the moon moving across the sky and if you stayed outside for a number of hours you could see how some of the more familiar stars have changed their position a little bit, but to get an over-all picture of what happens up in the sky you would have to view it night after night for years and years.

It was for this reason that planetariums were constructed. The first projector for use inside a planetarium dome was finished in 1924 by the Zeiss company in Europe.

This projector was run by electricity, and just like an automobile, it could be run at very slow speeds or at very fast speeds. Therefore the stars in the sky could be put through their actions of a whole year in a matter of minutes.

One In Chicago

Today there are many planetariums in the world. There are seven large ones in the United States, including one in Chicago and many, many smaller ones. Almost all of the projectors used in these are similar to the first one constructed in 1924.

New attachments were constructed from time to time, until today we can see what the stars looked like thousands of years ago, what they will look like thousands of years in the future, how the planets move in the sky, and so on.

Next Sunday we'll take a trip to a Planetarium and sit in on one of the shows. (Ask your parents to take you to the planetarium next time you go to Chicago. They'll like it too!)

Testing Soil
If you live on a farm, or have a garden you should understand what soil is, how it's improved, and kept in good condition.

Let's run an experiment in soils so that we can learn about good and bad soils. First of all collect as many different types of soils as you can such as sandy soil (along the river and lakes), loam (clay and sand mixed), and clay soils.

Lowlands along many river bottoms (as around the Illinois river) are deep, rich, loamy soils: quite fertile and productive. Sandy soil is loosely packed, less rich, and water seeps through it.

Clay soil is tightly packed, and some plants can't grow in it. Water tends to run off of clay soil. Collect samples of the different kinds of soils in such places as in a woods, in an open field, along a sand banked stream, in a cultivated field, in a pasture etc. See your County Agent for more details as to exact locations of the various types of soils to be found nearby.

How To Test

To test the soils place some of each type of soil in pots and plant one or two seeds of beans, radishes, or corn in each. Don't fertilize or feed plant food, but water each pot with the same amount of water every four or five days. At the end of one month observe the difference in growth.

Be sure to label the pot with the kind of soil, its location, and the date of planting for future reference.

From the above we've seen what type of soil or soils will grow the best plant and which is poorest.

Horton Smith and Byron Nelson have played 21 times in the Masters golf tournament.

About The Atom

By Joseph A. Smith

Fissionable Material

In an earlier article we said that Rutherford discovered that bombarding Beryllium with alpha particles would produce Carbon and a ray later found to be a fast moving neutron which had no electrical charge.

They have the same weight as protons and upon striking a proton will displace it. Soon they found that these fast moving neutrons could be used as bullets which when fired into heavy elements would produce elements even heavier than Uranium.

An example of such use would be firing a fast neutron into Uranium (which consists of three isotopes—U-238, U-235, and U-234). The U-235 will change into U-239 Neptunium and then Plutonium PU-239.

However, U-235 when struck by a fast moving neutron will release a tremendous amount of energy in the form of light, heat, and gamma rays as it breaks into tiny pieces. Plutonium also will release great amounts of energy by fission. From this came the atomic bomb.

No doubt you wonder how the scientist separates the U-235 isotope from Plutonium PU-239 even more used in the atomic bomb from the fissionable material could be obtained from Uranium (mainly tained).

PENNIES FROM HEAVEN—Lucky coins weigh down the table in front of Josefa Nemecek in Munich, W. Germany. Following an old custom of collecting pennies to buy her wedding shoes, Josefa saved 4,338 of the coins—each worth one-quarter of a U.S. penny—during her 18-month engagement. At first count, anyway.

Six year old Elise (pronounced I-ease), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies, 702 Park street, is all ready for her appearance in the Morgan County Junior Fair's Baby Parade Pageant on Wednesday, July 30th.

Elise is an old hand at appearing in Fair performances having won two trophies at the Illinois State Fair during the past consecutive years. With a young neighbor boy, when the family lived in Springfield, she and her friend took honors with bride and groom costumes and their picture was published nationwide even as far away as San Francisco, California.

The theme for her costume is "Summer Showers," which we seem to be having so plentifully. The color is orchid with a silver thread. The little dancer type dress has a ballerina skirt trimmed with ruffles also repeated on the shoulder straps. Yards and yards of ruffles were hand sewn on the matching orchid umbrella that took Elise's mother eight hours to make.

Elise is an accomplished dancer being a pupil of Miss Phyllis Barnes in Springfield with whom she has studied since she was three years old.

The Davies family moved to Jacksonville last August when Elise's father was transferred to this city with the General Telephone Company. Elise attended kindergarten at Washington school and this fall will enter Our Saviour's grade school.

Since she had a birthday (her sixth) on July 13th, Elise is fortunate to be able to enter in two contests. She will be in the Baby Parade on Wednesday, the 30th, and also in the Pony Tail Contest the evening of Thursday, July 31st, both starting at 6:30 o'clock at the grandstand.

Should you wish to make additional purchases all finished portraits are marked down 20% and more. You are not required to make any purchase whatsoever to enter this contest.

JUDGING

Our contest is always judged by the instructors of the Brooks Institute of Photography, Santa Barbara, Calif. They will select all the winners. As in the past winners will be selected only for their personality as shown in the picture. Any boy or girl from infancy thru six years old is eligible. Children thru ten may be photographed at the special low rates and groups of children, too, by paying the $1.95 plus $1 for each additional child.

NO GIMMICKS, NO HIGH PRESSURE

This is as honest a contest as we can possibly make it. PRIZES ARE PAID to the lucky winners. Whether you make a purchase of additional pictures or not — has absolutely nothing to do with the judges' decisions. We have never had to high pressure a customer yet to make a living — we never expect to in the future.

District Ten
Schools To Open
Tuesday, Sept. 2

PITTSFIELD—J. H. Voshall, superintendent of Pittsfield Community school district 10 has made the following announcement concerning the opening of schools in the district.

All schools in the district will open Tuesday morning, September 2. Teacher workshops will be held on Thursday and Friday, August 28 and 29. Principals and teachers will meet on Thursday at 9 a.m. in the local high school auditorium, followed by a teachers meeting with their building principals on Friday.

The first day of school on September 2 will be a brief one. Buses will make their regular runs and pupils will report to their various schools for registration in the elementary departments and to receive text book lists and assignments for the first full day of school on September 3.

High school students planning to attend either the Pittsfield high school or the Milton high school were registered at the close of school this spring. Other enrollments (from schools outside the district) for the fall term by students transferring to either of these high schools may be completed in the office of the principals anytime during the month of August, as principals in both the Pittsfield and Milton schools will be on duty each day during the month.

Old Orchard Club Progresses

Work is progressing well on the club house at the Old Orchard Country Club, in spite of unfavorable weather at times. The building is beginning to assume proportions and it appears that the club will have a club house to be proud of when it is completed.

The setting at the crest of the hill is ideal. The golf course was officially opened this week, with regular hours from 4 p.m. each afternoon and all day on Saturdays and Sundays. The rains have been very beneficial to the greens.

Arcadia Women

The Arcadia Woman's Club fulfilled its turn in filling the cookie jar at Marquette Boy's Home, Lincoln College, one of several Federation projects for Illinois club women. The clubs in Illinois take turns through the year keeping cookie jars filled at Lincoln Lodge.

Mrs. Loren Burrus was chairman of this project, with Mrs. Louella Davis ably assisting. Mrs. Harold McGinnis is the club's president.

The July meeting of the Arcadia Woman's club was cancelled because of the sickness of two charter members of the club. The next meeting of the club will be Wednesday, Aug. 13, at 2:30 (DST) at the Arcadia hall. The hostess will be Mrs. Andrew Wheeler.

By FRANK CRUBER

FOR a long moment, Tavenner stared at the man who lay at his feet. Then a shudder ran through him. For an instant he was almost sober. His eyes went to Susan, who sat past her toward Johnny Honsinger who was turning toward him.

"Help!" Tavenner cried suddenly. "Help, they're gonna lynch me!"

The emptied gun clutched in his fist, he stumbled past Susan toward Honsinger. The marshal drew his revolver as he came up and slammed the long barrel against the side of Tavenner's head. Tavenner went down like a felled steer.

Honsinger stepped over him straddling Tavenner. He half turned, saw Tom Rosser come walking toward him.

"My prisoner," he snarled. "Don't you make a move."

"For him?" scoffed Rosser. He made a half circle to avoid coming within yards of Honsinger and Tavenner. He continued on to Susan, who still stood, petrified, before James Fell.

Rosser gave her a quick look and dropped to one knee. Carefully, he put a hand under Fell and turned him over on his back. Blood was oozing from the left side of Fell's chest. Rosser's eyes ran quickly over Fell, could find no other wounds and was surprised. At the short range, firing six times, Tavenner had struck Fell only once.

He said over his shoulder, "Get Dr. Kent!"

The command released Susan Tavenner. A shudder ran through her and then she came alive. She whirled, started running, past Honsinger and the unconscious Tavenner.

Others had seen the shooting, however. One had dashed into

Dr. Kent's office and the doctor was coming out of his office as Susan rushed toward his office.

"Dr. Kent!" Susan cried. "Mr. Fell's been shot."

SIM AKINS, wearing his new deputy marshal's badge, clumped up the stairs and went into the hotel. He found Moody behind the desk.

"It ain't true," he said to Moody. "Tavenner wasn't fired by Condor."

"Condor told you to tell that?" snapped Moody.

"Maybe he did and maybe he didn't," growled Akins. "And maybe it's just me who's telling you. Tavenner stays in jail. Don't you and your fancy friends try nothing."

"Get out!" snapped Moody. "And don't step back into his hotel until you're invited—by me..."

Akins looked pointedly at the bandage about Moody's head. "You lost a chunk of your brains this morning. Use the rest, if there's any left, to think what's going to happen to you, you buck the boys again."

He pivoted on his heel and headed for the door, flinching as he went out because Tom Rosser stood on the veranda just outside the door, and he had to pass him again.

Rosser intended otherwise. "Akins," he said as the door swung open for the deputy.

Akins stopped. "Turn in your tin star," Rosser continued. "That's me telling you!"

"I ain't afraid of you, Rosser," blustered Akins.

"Have you ever in your life had $2,500?" Rosser asked mockingly. "All you've got to do is draw that gun of yours and put a single bullet into me. You do that and Riley Condor'll give you the twenty-five hundred. You're not afraid—you just said so..."

But Akins was already moving down the stairs.

IT was ten minutes to 12... almost four hours since James Penmore Fell had been shot down on the street by the drunken Guy Tavenner. In the Pleasure Palace, Riley Condor was again haranguing members of the sporting syndicate.

"All right, I fired him," he declared. "He was on his own, but that's no good. The man he shot is Jim Fell. He's Mr. Big. Anyone else nobody'd raise a hand—after last night. But Jim Fell... Every man in this town is in awe of him. Every worker on that railroad swears by him. The vigilantes last night were nothing—a few scared rabbits. Now... isn't a man in the territory wouldn't join up with them. They hang one man—even an excuse of a man like Guy Tavenner—they'll continue to hang."

Not one of the men before Condor put up an argument. But Ken Rud asked, "We got to stop them from hanging this Tavenner?"

Condor nodded grimly. "If we have to kill off half the town!"

At five minutes to 12, Wendell Lewis stepped out of his store. In one hand he gripped a revolver, in the other a coil of rope.

He joined Dr. Kent. Other shopkeepers were advancing. These were not the survivors of the dawn group. Oh, a few of them had been on that abortive expedition, but this new group of vigilantes consisted of most citizens who were not members of the syndicate's ring.

Sim Akins, who stood in the doorway of the jail, suddenly whirled inside and slammed the door.

Across the street, Rosser sighed wearily and went past Moody down the stairs.

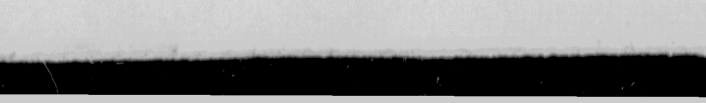

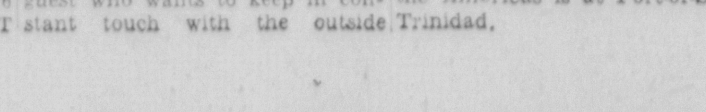

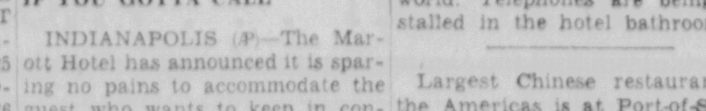

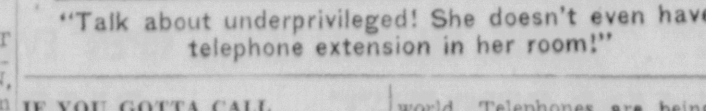

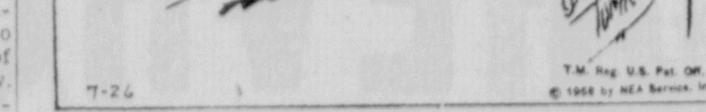

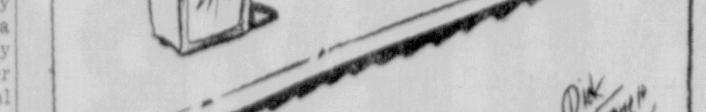

"Where do you think you're going?" Moody asked.

"To do the job I came here to do," Rosser said heavily.
